RESOLUTIONS OF THE OIC FORMING
THE BASIS AND GUIDING THE ACTIVITIES OF THE STANDING COMMITTEE FOR ECONOMIC AND COMMERCIAL COOPERATION OF THE OIC
I

RESOLUTION ADOPTED AT THE THIRD ISLAMIC SUMMIT CONFERENCE ESTABLISHING THE STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE OIC CHAIRMED BY HEADS OF STATE

Resolution No. 13/3-P (IS)

The Third Islamic Summit Conference (Palestine and Al-Quds Session), meeting in Mecca Al-Mukarramah, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, from 19th to 22nd Rabi-Al-Awal, 1401 H. (25-28 January, 1981);

Having listened to the proposals by His Majesty King HASSAN II, Chairman of Al-Quds Committee, that three committees will be established and chaired by the Kings and Presidents of the Islamic States,

Proceeding from a firm belief that joint Islamic action needs to be consolidated in the scientific and technological field, and in the economic and trade sphere,

Prompted by the desire to give information and culture a fresh impetus to help world public opinion understand the basic issues of the Islamic nations, particularly those of Al-Quds and Palestine, and to confront the tendentious campaign launched against Islam and Muslims,

DECIDES:

1. To establish three Standing Committees, the first for scientific and technological cooperation, the second for economic and trade cooperation, and the third for information and cultural affairs;

2. These Committees shall undertake to follow up implementation of the resolutions passed, or about to be passed, by the Islamic Conference in those fields; to study all possible means of strengthening cooperation among Muslim States in those fields, and to draw up programmes and submit proposals designed to increase the Islamic States' capacity in those fields;

3. Each Committee shall consist of the representatives of ten Islamic States, at ministerial level, and shall be chaired by the Head of State of an Islamic State;

4. Members of these Committees shall be elected by the Islamic Foreign Ministers' Conference for a renewable term of three years;

5. A Committee shall hold a meeting, if invited to do so by its Chairman or by a majority of its members; its meeting shall be valid if attended by a majority.

FINAL COMMUNIQUE
OF THE FOURTH ISLAMIC SUMMIT CONFERENCE
ENTRUSTING THE CHAIRMANSHIP OF THE STANDING COMMITTEE FOR ECONOMIC AND COMMERCIAL COOPERATION TO H.E. KENAN EVREN, PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF TURKEY

Final Communique No. IS/4-84/E/DEC

".... The Conference decided to entrust H.E. Mr. Kenan EVREN, President of the Republic of Turkey, with the Chairmanship of the Permanent Committee on Economic and Commercial Cooperation..." (Page 18, para 40).
129. The Conférence attached great importance to multi-modal connectivity to further advance economic coopération among OIC Member States. In this regard, it noted the recent developments on execution of the OIC Dakar-Port Sudan Railway project and encouraged OIC project owners and stakeholders to continue their efforts towards mobilizing technical and funding support for the successful implementation of this integrative project.

130. The Conférence commended the rôle of the Standing Committee for Economic and Commercial Coopération (COMCEC) under the chairmanship of the Président of the Republic of Turkey in contributing to the realization of OIC objectives in the economic domain.

131. The Conférence expressed its profound appréciation for the successful implementation of the COMCEC revised statute and strategy adopted at the 4th Extraordinary Summit. It called on Member States to enhance the implementation of the revised COMCEC statute and strategy, in close coordination and coopération with the General Secrétariat and in accordance with the OIC Charter, and requested Member States to continue to actively participate in the work of the COMCEC under the chairmanship of H.E. Recep Tayyip Erdogan, Président of the Republic of Turkey.

The Senior Officials deliberated on the agenda items and prepared the Draft Resolutions for consideration by the Ministerial Session.

Opening Session

8. The Opening Ceremony of the Thirty Fourth Session of the COMCEC was held on November 28th, 2018 under the Chairmanship of H.E. Recep Tayyip ERDOĞAN, President of the Republic of Turkey and the Chairman of the COMCEC.

9. Welcoming the delegates, H.E. ERDOĞAN expressed his wishes for the session to be most beneficial for the member countries, the Muslim World and the world in general. H.E. ERDOĞAN stated that as long as the Palestinians stick to their righteous goal, the invaders will never achieve their aims.

10. H.E. ERDOĞAN mentioned that the fate of the OIC region was determined by the World War I. Although a century has passed since this war, H.E. ERDOĞAN expressed that the Region is still feeling the trauma of its effects very deeply.

11. H.E. ERDOĞAN continued his statement by highlighting the need for reforming the United Nations system. H.E. ERDOĞAN pointed out that the United Nations, in its current form, largely lacks the capability to counteract problems, in which five countries retain the ability to obstruct the system with their vetoes, regardless of the desires of the other member states and the UN Secretariat.
12. H.E. ERDOĞAN underlined the importance of fighting against terrorism and expressed that, as the Islamic world, there is a need for objecting to the destruction of the primeval cities of Islamic civilization and the creation of new terrorist states in the region under the cover of DAESH as well as denounce the destruction of our future by such heinous organizations as FETO, PKK, AL-QAEDA, BOKO-HARAM and AL-SHABAAB.

13. H.E. ERDOĞAN stated that in order to minimize the risk of being subject to hostile attitudes in terms of economy, it would be a good start to increase the use of the national currencies in the commercial dealings between the Member Countries.

14. In the face of growing protectionist tendencies and increases in customs tariffs, H.E. ERDOĞAN pointed out that reducing non-tariff barriers and facilitating customs procedures will create a new opening for world trade, acting as a lifeline. In this respect, H.E. ERDOĞAN underlined the significance of the theme of this year’s exchange of views session which is “Facilitating Trade: Improving Customs Risk Management Systems in the OIC Member States”

15. H.E. ERDOĞAN also underlined the importance of some crucial COMCEC projects such as the Trade Preferential System (TPS-OIC), the Gold Exchanges, the Real Estate Exchange and the OIC Arbitration Center. H.E. ERDOĞAN also stressed the need for accelerating the operationalization process of these projects and pointed out that that Turkey has established a high level National Coordination Committee on COMCEC affairs.

16. While concluding his speech, H.E. ERDOĞAN expressed his hope for all of the efforts aiming at developing cooperation among member countries of the OIC and COMCEC, would strengthen the collaboration between brotherly nations, and increase the prosperity of the Islamic Ummah.

(A copy of the text of the Inaugural Statement of H.E. Recep Tayyip ERDOĞAN is attached as Annex II.)

17. Following the Inaugural Statement made by H.E. ERDOĞAN, the Secretary General of the OIC made a statement at the Opening Session.

18. His Excellency Dr. Yousef Al-OTHAIMEEN, the Secretary General of the OIC, thanked the Government of the Republic of Turkey for the traditional hospitality and excellent arrangements made for the success of this annual event. H.E. Al-OTHAIMEEN underlined that there is no doubt that the prioritization of trade and investment projects will go a long way in bridging the current gap in the member countries development paradigm, especially as it is aimed at reducing the widening unemployment among the youth and vulnerable segments of the OIC populations. H.E. AL-OTHAIMEEN also emphasized that the prioritization of trade and investment projects would also assist in mitigating the current crises brought about by increased migration of youth beyond the OIC region.

19. H.E. Al-OTHAIMEEN also expressed his commend to all Member States that have continued to support the various activities of the OIC.

(The text of the Statement of the Secretary General of the OIC is attached as Annex III.)

20. The Heads of Delegations of Gabon, Indonesia and Qatar made statements during the Opening Ceremony. They appreciated the consistent support of the Government of the Republic of Turkey to the COMCEC’s activities over the years and thanked H.E. ERDOĞAN for his wise guidance and leadership in enhancing economic and commercial cooperation among the OIC Member States. Highlighting the importance of improved customs risk management systems for facilitating trade in the member countries, they emphasized the need for enhancing regional integration, modernization of customs, digitalization, and exchanging knowledge in various fields.

21. H.E. Dr. Bandar M. H. HAJJAR, President of the Islamic Development Bank (IDB) Group also delivered a statement at the Opening Session. H.E. Dr. HAJJAR expressed his thanks and appreciation to the Member Countries for their permanent support to the activities of the IDB Group. H.E. Dr. HAJJAR informed the delegations that IDB has recently started the implementation of the “President’s five-year programme” which is based on the Islamic Development Bank’s vision as well as the ten-year strategic framework of the Bank, which are both aligned with sustainable development goals. H.E. Dr. HAJJAR underlined that the five-year programme is based on fostering and broadening partnerships with various development parties, strengthening added value chains to amplify the development effect, innovating the appropriate development solutions and Islamic financing tools and strengthening the role of science technology and innovation to achieve socio-economic development in Member States.

(The text of the Statement of the IDB Group President is attached as Annex IV.)

22. Mr. Rifat HİSARCIKLIOĞLU, President of the Union of Chambers and Commodity Exchanges of Turkey (TOBB) and the Vice-President of the Islamic Chamber of Commerce, Industry and Agriculture also made a speech at the Opening Session. Mr. HİSARCIKLIOĞLU stressed the importance of private sector in the cooperation endeavors among the member states. Mr. HİSARCIKLIOĞLU also informed the delegations that OIC Arbitration Center will be operationalized in 2019. Mr. HİSARCIKLIOĞLU underlined that the OIC Arbitration Center will boost the intra-OIC trade and investment.
23. Following the Opening Ceremony, H.E. Recep Tayyip ERDOĞAN received the Heads of Delegation.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS BY H.E. RECEP TAYYİP ERDOĞAN, PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF TURKEY AND
CHAIRMAN OF THE COMCEC
AT THE OPENING SESSION OF
THE THIRTY FOURTH SESSION OF THE COMCEC

(Istanbul, 28 November 2018)

BISMILLAH ARRAHMAN ARRAHIM.

Distinguished Ministers,

Distinguished Secretary General,

My Dear Brothers and Sisters,

ASSALAMU ALAIKUM WA RAHMATULLAHI WA BARAKATUH.

MAY THE PEACE, MERCY AND BLESSINGS OF ALLAH BE UPON YOU.

I would like to greet all of you with the most heartfelt feelings, affection and respect as we open the 34th Ministerial Session of the COMCEC, the Standing Committee for Economic and Commercial Cooperation of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation.

As the Summit Term Chairman of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation and Chairman of the COMCEC, I would like to welcome all our distinguished guests to Turkey.

Once again, I am very pleased to welcome you to our beautiful city of Istanbul, as the cradle of civilizations and a source of pride for all humanity.

On this occasion, I convey my deepest affection to our brothers and sisters all over the world, to our friends, and to all those who are oppressed whose eyes and hearts are with us.

Our beloved Prophet glorified this mighty city and foretold its conquest, and today I greet all of our guests from the sister cities of Istanbul, from Mecca to Medina, from Sarajevo to Islamabad, from Cairo to Kabul.

In particular, I salute Palestine, the birthplace of civilization, peace and good will, and Al-Quds Sharif – the apple of the eye of Palestine and the Islamic world.

I send my sincere greetings to the young sons and daughters and women of Palestine, who have dedicated their lives to the preservation and defense of Al-Quds; and to all of the Palestinian refugees who have shed tears for 70 years as they yearn for their homeland.
I address my brothers and sisters with the magnificent verses of the late Mahmoud Darwish that embedded themselves in the hearts of invaders like an arrow.

I SWEAR
FROM EYE LASHES I SHALL WEAVE
A KERCHIEF FOR YOU
AND WEAVE ON IT A POEM FOR YOUR EYES I SHALL WRITE ON IT A SENTENCE THAT IS DEARER THAN MARTYRS AND KISSES;
"SHE WAS A PALESTINIAN AND SHE IS STILL SO"!

Yes, as long as there are Muslims, as long as there are people with a will to defend their rights, justice and freedom, Inshallah, Palestine will continue to exist.

Be izn Allah, no oppression and no tyranny will be enough to extinguish the fire of liberation in the hearts of the Palestinians.

As long as the Palestinians – men and women, young and old, and each a monument to courage and sacrifice – stick to their righteous goal, the invaders will never achieve their aims.

I pray to Allah the Almighty that the 34th Ministerial Meeting of the COMCEC will bear fruitful results, especially for Palestine, our Region, our countries and humanity as a whole.

Ya Rab, we pray for the realization of the decisions taken today following the consultations.

I believe that our friends who are with us today representing their countries share the same sentiment and the same sensitivity.

My distinguished brothers and sisters,

Distinguished Guests,

Today's Ministerial Meeting of the COMCEC is taking place on the 100th anniversary of the end of World War I, during which the fate of our region was determined.

Although a century has passed since this war, which at the time was thought would “put an end to all wars”, we are still feeling the trauma of its effects very deeply.

The region in which we live has been one of the first to experience the devastation of war and its destructive effects.
The resolution of the problems that can be linked directly to the results of World War I is possible only if we have identified and confirmed the true source of these problems.

We must especially turn this 100th anniversary of the Great War into an opportunity to “understand and comprehend”, rather than merely recognizing it with a “commemoration ceremony”.

As Muslims, it is extremely important that we do this without complexity, especially as nations whose fates have been interwoven within the same geography for thousands of years.

For us, history is not a series of past events, but rather an instrument from which we draw lessons with force, courage and inspiration.

For Muslims, every event that has been experienced in the past, every bittersweet situation should be duly interpreted, analyzed and taken into consideration.

That said, history can be unveiled only when we keep a clear mind and remain sincere in our efforts.

Studying history from an imposed perspective will not provide understanding, but will only exasperate existing prejudices.

Treating our own history with an orientalist approach will serve the efforts of those who feed upon inter-Muslim conflicts.

It is vital that we approach this matter after freeing ourselves from the shackles that stereotypes and prejudices have cast on our minds.

Today, there is a single reality that is once again making itself evident.

Although it ended 100 years ago, the devastation wrought on our region by this war has not yet been fully cleared.

As Muslims, we are still confronting the difficulties imposed by World War I on the human, political, economic and social spheres.

While those who brought war to the Middle East and Africa with imperialist ambitions are today living in peace and prosperity, we are, a century later, still paying the price of these conflicts and the tensions they have caused.

Those who once tore our region apart are today fortifying their solidarity through partnerships, while we remain at odds with one another, gradually becoming even more fragmented.

I would like to express very clearly and openly that the many crises, tensions, blood and tears that we are today experiencing across the entire region, from Syria to Iraq, and from Yemen to Palestine, have at their origin the designs behind the Great War.

The greatest victims of these nefarious plans, which were fashioned in Western capitals and executed by dark figures such as LAWRENCE, have been the Palestinians.
Millions of our Palestinian brothers and sisters have not only lost their land, but have also been subject to the world's gravest injustices.

Policies that fail to take history into account, as well as the social and human dynamics of our region, have caused pain, destruction and strife between brothers and sisters, not only in Palestine, but various other parts of the world.

With World War I, Western countries exported the same diseases that had been gnawing at their roots for centuries to the Middle East.

While this exchange brought them security and prosperity, what they left behind was only conflict and misery.

My Dearest Brothers and Sisters...

We, of course, cannot rewind history; nor is it possible to deny the past and ignore all that has happened.

So as Muslims, what is it that we must do?

On the centennial of the end of World War I, we must learn from history and take inspiration from the past to build a much brighter future.

We should no longer fall into the traps set by those acting with the mindset that “a drop of oil is more precious than a drop of blood”.

In this region, in which the borders have been drawn with blood, we should not create new borders or raise new walls in our hearts.

We must not let ourselves be deceived by those who try to cause animosity between us by emphasizing our differences.

Foremost among the diseases that have held Western societies captive for years, causing great destruction and death in Europe, and which were injected into our region with World War I, are racism and sectarianism.

The bigotry of sectarianism, in particular, is the most serious problem of the present day, undermining Muslim societies from the inside and leaving them open to external interventions.

This fitna that places personal preferences ahead of religion, and even “makes one view his or her sect as a religion”, has no place in Islam.

In our belief, everyone who turns towards the same qiblah and believes in the same god, the same prophet and the same Holy Scripture, are our brothers and sisters of faith.

No one has the right or authority to constrain the boundaries of the Islamic fraternity drawn by the Almighty Allah and his beloved Prophet (S.A.W).
In the heart of a believer, there is, and there should be, a place not only for the members of the 1.7 billion-strong Islamic Ummah, but for all of humanity.

In this regard, this is what the Rasoul’Allah commanded us in his last khutbah:

"LISTEN AND MEMORIZE MY WORDS WELL…
YOUR RAB IS ONE, YOUR FATHER IS ONE.
YOUR RELIGION AND PROPHET ARE ALSO ONE.
YOU ARE ALL FROM ADAM, AND ADAM WAS CREATED FROM CLAY.
NO ONE IS EVER SUPERIOR TO ANYONE BASED ON LINEAGE OR FAMILY.
IN THE SIGHT OF ALLAH, IT IS ONLY TAQWA THAT ELEVATES A PERSON.
ALL MUSLIMS ARE BROTHERS.
YOUR BLOOD, LIVES, RIGHT TO LIFE; YOUR GOODS, VIRTUES, HONORS AND PRIDES; YOUR PHYSICAL INTEGRITY ARE WORTHY OF FULL RESPECT AND SHALL BE PROTECTED AND SACRED UNTIL THE DAY YOU MEET ALLAH”

Yes... Our Rasoul’Allah (S.A.W.) illuminated the path to salvation for Muslims and for all of humanity in his orders and recommendations made 14 centuries ago.

No one has the right to breach these red lines, or even to remain unresponsive.

My Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Nobody can stand in front of our hearts when they beat together.

Our problems are not insurmountable as long as we retain our fellowship and act in unity and solidarity.

We will seek the solution within this community, not in others.

We will expect help and contributions from our brothers, from each other, when seeking to resolve our problems, rather than from others.

There is no point in expecting a cure from those who are the root causes of our problems.

We have witnessed and experienced the futility of expecting help from foreign countries on occasions when our hearts were being torn out and in other unjust situations over the last century.

International organizations have left us disappointed when we knocked on their doors to come up with a solution to the Palestine issue, and for such other problems as civil wars. What else could we expect from them? They will never strive for our benefit.
In particular, we have experienced very closely how organizations like the United Nations Security Council – which is, on paper, responsible for ensuring global peace and stability – act to protect the interests of their permanent members. The entire world looks to them, but only the will of the five permanent members is satisfied.

It is unfortunate that we have come up empty every time we have asked these organizations and so-called major states to contribute to regional peace in times of crisis.

In their eyes, do those who perish while trying to migrate across Mediterranean and Aegean have no value?

We have personally witnessed their greater concern for the number of whales at the North Pole than children dying of starvation in Somalia.

We have seen many times the concepts of democracy, human rights and freedom being meaningful only as long as they serve their own interests.

We now know very well that there are only few values that are appreciated by those countries aside from money, oil, diamonds and gold.

As Turkey, we have often expressed that "THE WORLD IS GREATER THAN FIVE", behind which are the bitter experiences, disappointments and double standards we have witnessed. We are no longer living in the post-World War I world.

It is these same reasons that drive our efforts to reform the United Nations system. It is crucial that the UN system be reformed.

This is also the motivation behind our efforts to make the Organization of Islamic Cooperation more active and involved throughout our Term Chairmanship.

We now need to establish a comprehensive policy that takes into account the weaknesses of existing international structures and their inability to come up with solutions to problems.

As we always say, it is time to take matters into own hands.

It is us and no one else that shall resolve the crisis in Syria while taking into account the territorial integrity of the country.

We shall take the initiative ourselves and bring to an end the conflicts that have brought thousands of children to the point of starvation and death in Yemen.

We shall be the first to condemn the treacherous attacks against those praying in a mosque in Afghanistan.

From Berlin to Paris, from Brussels to Moscow, we shall be the first to oppose the killing of innocents, regardless of the identity of the terrorist perpetrators.

We shall be the first to denounce the thuggery and state terrorism that has not hesitated in murdering Palestinian civilians before the eyes of the world.
We shall be the first to protect the rights of the Palestinian refugees in camps in Lebanon and Jordan who have been separated from their lands for 70 years.

We shall be the first to stand in the way of invaders seeking to blow out the candles of Al-Quds by encouraging our citizens to visit the city.

We shall be the first to raise our voices against those destroying the homes of the Rohingyas of Arakan and the ethnic cleansing of our brothers and sisters.

We shall be the first to object to the destruction of the primeval cities of Islamic civilization and the creation of new terrorist states in our region under the cover of DAESH.

We shall be the first to denounce the destruction of our future by such heinous organizations as FETO, PKK, AL-QAEDA, BOKO-HARAM and AL-SHABAAB.

We shall be the first to oppose the deaths of tens of thousands of African hope travelers every year in the stormy waters of the Mediterranean.

We shall, before any other country, protect and take care of the Syrian asylum seekers who have been forced to flee their homes to escape war and oppression.

As the followers of a belief that is based on the understanding that “Killing an innocent person is akin to killing all of humanity”, we shall, before anyone else, object to extrajudicial killings and brutal murders.

We shall be the first to raise voices against persecution and injustice, no matter where on earth it is happening.

We shall, before any other country, respect the laws of our neighborhood, regardless of the boundaries drawn up by imperialists.

Before any other party, we shall not allow our brotherhood be damaged, nor shall we accept the shedding of blood along ethnic, cultural and sectarian lines.

On the centennial of World War I, we shall act with foresight and discernment to prevent similar suffering and to prevent our enemies from devising similar plans; and shall learn our lessons together.

Only in this way can we ease our pain and prepare a peaceful and serene future for our children.

Distinguished brothers and sisters,

If we are to resolve our problems on our own, we need to utilize the platforms and the tools we have in our hands in the best way possible.

The use of national currencies in our bilateral trade is extremely important, in that it allows us to break free from the imperialist shackles that bind us.
As the member states of COMCEC, the more we invest in each other’s countries and the more we increase our trade, the stronger we will become. There is no better solution than to use our own national and indigenous currencies, as failure to do so will continue our suffering under the effect of exchange rates.

I would like to once again underline the importance we attach to increasing intra-OIC trade to 25 percent.

I would like to call on all relevant countries to update their concession lists and to complete other necessary procedures for the entry into force of the Trade Preferential System of Islamic Countries.

I also call on all member states to take part in the trade facilitation activities of the Islamic Development Bank and its affiliated institutions.

As you may know, the recent increases in customs tariffs applied by the current US administration have resulted in a rise in protectionist tendencies in world trade.

It is apparent that the resulting trade wars will have severe negative repercussions on global trade, production and prosperity.

Reducing non-tariff barriers and facilitating customs clearance processes will serve as a lifeline to global trade and will open new horizons.

Furthermore, there is a need to modernize our customs infrastructures, to make wider use of information technologies and to further simplify customs procedures.

I find it very meaningful and appropriate that we are addressing the issue of “Facilitating Trade: Improving Customs Risk Management Systems in the OIC Member States” at this year's COMCEC exchange of views session.

We need to maximize our efforts toward the implementation of such initiatives as the Trade Preferential System, the Gold Exchange, the Real Estate Exchange and the Istanbul Arbitration Center.

I would like to emphasize that we await your valuable support in all these fields.

Carrying out the activities of COMCEC in a more effective manner requires a strong coordination and monitoring infrastructure at a national level.

For this purpose, in Turkey we have established the COMCEC National Coordination Committee under the Presidency Office of Strategy and Budget.

I hope that this Committee, which will convene at least twice a year, will give our cooperation significant momentum.

We are aware that some of our member states have established national coordination systems for COMCEC activities, and I invite the other member countries to take appropriate measures for the coordination of COMCEC activities at a national level.
Before concluding my remarks, I would once again like to express my pleasure at hosting you in our beautiful Istanbul.

I hope that the 34th Session of the COMCEC will bear fruit for all our countries. May Allah be our supporter and helper at all times.

Thank you all! May you live long, and I entrust you all to Allah the Almighty.

Take good care of yourselves...

In the name of Allah, and Peace and Blessings be upon His Prophet

Your Excellency Mr Recep Tayyip Erdoğan, President of the Republic of Turkey and Chairman of COMCEC,
Your Excellencies the Ministers and Heads of Delegation,
Honourable Delegates,
Distinguished Ladies and Gentlemen,

Assalamu Alaikum warahmatu Allah wabarakatuh.

It affords me immense pleasure to address this 34th session of the Standing Committee for Economic and Commercial Cooperation of the OIC (COMCEC). I am sincerely grateful to His Excellency Mr Recep Tayyip Erdoğan, President of the Republic of Turkey, for supporting COMCEC’s activities and programs during his tenure as the Committee’s chair.

This session assumes great significance. It is taking place at a time when the traditional economic partnership and multilateral economic cooperation are threatened by the growing spate of economic nationalism, which in turn will reverse the gains accruable from international trade. We are also meeting at a time when many OIC member states are facing the challenges brought by the negative effects of economic slow-down and the dire need to restructure the economies of these countries, while putting much emphasis on the diversification of the economy and achievement of comprehensive development. It is instructive that inter-OIC trade, which has recorded a steady increase from 2004 began to decrease as noted in the recorded total trade volume in 2016, which accounted for an almost 20% decrease from the previous years.

Despite these challenges, I am gratified to note that our trade financing operations have continued to increase, while intensifying efforts to scale up intra-OIC investment in the agricultural and financial sectors. Accordingly, the elaboration of the OIC Infrastructure Development and Regional Integration Policy is receiving the desired attention of our member states, while regional cooperation frameworks are being consolidated with the aim of addressing the current human and physical infrastructure deficits.
In this regard, it should be noted that the activities of most OIC institutions have focused greatly on the development of intra-OIC trade, logistics and infrastructure, with the ultimate objective of promoting intra-OIC integration as well as sustainable development in the goods and services sector. In this connection, the two major regional programmes, namely the Special Programme for the Development of Africa and the Special Programme for Central Asia have featured greatly projects in both the trade, transportation, energy and agricultural sectors. Other activities in this regard include the Arab-Africa Trade Bridge, the implementation of the Trans-Saharan Highway and the Kazakhstan-Turkmenistan- Iran Railway and indeed the Dakar-Port Sudan Railway.

Excellency Mr President,
Excellencies,

There is no doubt that the prioritization of trade and investment projects will go a long way in bridging the current gap in our development paradigm, especially as it is aimed at reducing the widening unemployment among the youth and vulnerable segments of OIC populations. It would also assist in mitigating the current crises brought about by increased migration of youth beyond the OIC region. At this juncture, I wish to commend the responsiveness of many of the OIC active Member States regarding the economic and humanitarian problems some of the OIC Member States encounter, which were brought about by the multiplication of political and natural crises in these countries. The relevant OIC resolutions on humanitarian and development assistance to crisis-affected OIC member states would need to be implemented in a holistic and sustainable manner.

I should also avail myself of this opportunity to commend the efforts being made by COMCEC’s Coordination Office to respond to the development priorities of the OIC Member States. I am equally thankful to the relevant OIC institutions for contributing to the implementation of OIC resolutions in the socio-economic domain. Our development intervention programmes have been effective thanks to the dedication of the relevant parties in the Islamic Development Bank (IDB) Group, while the mobilization of the private sector has continued to be positive due to the efforts of the Islamic Chamber of Commerce, Industry and Agriculture (ICCIA). I am glad to note that the task of creating a commercial arbitration center for OIC countries is being pursued with utmost vigor by the Chamber. In this regard, let me also express my appreciation to the President of the Islamic Development Bank for supporting our current demarche to put in place an appropriate legal framework for a permanent investment dispute settlement mechanism under the OIC Agreement on promotion, protection and guarantee of investments.
In the Halal Food and Standardisation Sector, it is gratifying to note the positive effect of the annual HALAL EXPO, co-held by the Standards and Metrology Institute for Islamic Countries (SMIIC) and the Islamic Center for Development of Trade (ICDT), on promoting intra-OIC trade and Islamic tourism, among other areas of cooperation.

On the OIC’s efforts on labor and social protection, I am glad to note the sustained active role of Statistical, Economic and Social Research and Training Centre for Islamic Countries (SESRIC) in the elaboration of the OIC Agreement on Mutual Recognition Arrangement of Skilled Workforce, the OIC Bilateral Agreement on Exchange of Manpower and the OIC Labour Market Strategy. These legal instruments would ensure a greater visibility for OIC in addressing the perennial problems of migration, unemployment and youth empowerment. In this context, SESRIC constant support for the OIC Occupational Safety and Health Network has become a flagship programme that has recorded appreciable success in galvanizing welfare of the workforce in our countries. This has naturally informed the successful adoption of the Statute of the OIC Labour Center, which the Government of Azerbaijan has graciously agreed to host its headquarters in Baku. I wish to therefore call on all member states to accede to the membership of this OIC specialized institution charged with cooperation in the domain of labour matters.

Similarly, our agricultural cooperation has received further boost in the aftermath of the definitive entry into force of the Statute of the Islamic Organisation for Food Security in February 2018, following ratification by twelve (12) Member States. The second General Assembly of IOFS is scheduled for 10-11 December 2018 in Astana, Kazakhstan.

Your Excellency Mr President,
Excellencies,

Before concluding, I wish to seize this opportunity to commend all our Member States that have continued to support the various activities of the OIC, including the signing and ratification of the various OIC economic agreements. This is because our Member States are cognizant that these institutional frameworks are instrumental to the success of our joint action and the realization of our collective desire to build our organization to leading positions in all actions aiming to respond to the developmental aspirations of our member states and our peoples.

I thank you for your kind attention, and I wish you all successful and fruitful deliberations.

Wassalamu Alaikum warahmatu Allah wabarakaatu.
ANNEX
ADDRESS BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE ISLAMIC DEVELOPMENT BANK (IDB GROUP), AT THE OPENING SESSION OF THE THIRTY FOURTH MINISTERIAL SESSION OF THE COMCEC
(İstanbul, 28 November 2018)

In the name of Allah Most Gracious and Most Merciful

- Your Excellency President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan, President of the Republic of Turkey and chairman of the Standing Committee for Economic and Commercial Cooperation (COMCEC).
- Your Excellency brother Fuad Uktai, Vice President of the Republic of Turkey
- Your Excellencies Ministers,
- Your Excellency Dr. Yousef bin Ahmad Al-Othaimeen, OIC Secretary General,
- Honourable members of delegations,
- Brothers and sisters,

Assalamu Alaikom Wa Rahmatullahi Wa Barakatuh,

It is such a great honour for me to take part in the 34th session of the Standing Committee for Economic and Commercial Cooperation of the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation in the historic and beautiful city of Istanbul. First, I would like to express my sincerest thanks and appreciation to the government and people of the Republic of Turkey for the warm welcome and generous hospitality that they have been extending to us since we set foot in this fine country. At the outset of my statement, allow me to express my thanks and deep gratitude to his Excellency Mr. Recep Tayyip Erdoğan, President of the Republic of Turkey and Chairman of COMCEC for his sincere efforts to strengthen solidarity and cooperation amid Islamic countries.

The speech of His Excellency President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan contained numerous bright ideas and proposals aiming at strengthening and supporting the journey of economic cooperation between Islamic countries in all its forms. The Bank’s Group shall work with the concerned parties, namely COMCEC secretariat, to implement these proposals on the field to enhance economic and commercial cooperation between Member States.
Your Excellency Mr. President,
Brothers and sisters,

Since the establishment of COMCEC, the Islamic Development Bank Group has kept an exceptional relationship with it by implementing the esteemed Committee’s resolutions as well as the joint programmes and adopted initiatives such as COMCEC strategy, the preferential trade system, providing technical assistance to Member States to develop their commercial capacities in addition to the effective participation in the meetings of the work groups of COMCEC strategy as an appropriate practical mechanism to address the main issues facing Member States in economy and commerce.

Your Excellency Mr. President,
Your Excellencies Ministers,

IDB Group seeks to raise the level of its financing to help Member States achieve sustainable development goals. The Islamic Development Bank Group has been making colossal efforts to become the first development institution for its Member States, and it aspires to be an institution that responds swiftly to the needs of these states, in a world witnessing drastic changes and shifts, and advancing at an increasingly fast pace, especially in technological development.

We recently started the implementation of the “President’s five-year programme” which is based on the Islamic Development Bank’s vision as well as the ten-year strategic framework of the Bank, which are both aligned with sustainable development goals. The five-year programme is based on fostering and broadening partnerships with various development parties, strengthening added value chains to amplify the development effect, innovating the appropriate development solutions and Islamic financing tools and strengthening the role of science technology and innovation to achieve socio-economic development in Member States.

I would like to commend the quantum leap in the IDB Group development business model which will guide the bank in the next five years. It involves working to shift from entirely relying on the Bank’s own resources to including all developers such as the private sector, civil society, donors, charities, volunteers, researchers and academics to make markets work towards development and connect Member States’ economies with global value chains in addition to enhancing their competitiveness which relies on each state’s comparative advantages. Within this framework, various electronic platforms will help strengthen economic ties and intra-trade between Member States, and boost investment in them. The bank has launched the first Waqf platform to crowd source grants and implement three new financing modes to mobilise financial resources within tripartite partnerships (public and private sectors, and third parties). The bank also established the Engage platform which is a meeting point and a forum for researchers, inventors, investors, small and medium enterprises, private sector companies, government decision makers and NGOs to provide innovative solutions to development challenges in the areas of food security, health, inclusive education, sustainable management of water and sanitary drainage, access to clean energy at reasonable prices and sustainable industrialisation.

Your Excellency Mr. President,
Your Excellencies Ministers,

Value chains have enjoyed a great deal of attention lately thanks to their positive results for the economy in many developing countries such as transferring technology, boosting development rates and attracting investments. Connecting our Member States to global value chains will doubtlessly increase exports between Member States and other states, which will contribute in cutting budget and trade balance deficit and create new job opportunities. Experts in economy, technology and trade view global value chains as the second wave of globalisation. In the first wave, international trade consisted in the trade of commodities and manufactured goods, while in this second wave international trade is characterised by the dismantlement of production operations and the distribution of its phases among various locations all around the world. The distribution of production among multiple locations has become cost-effective, and the Information and communication technology revolution also contributed to facilitating production operations. Progress made in robots, automated manufacturing, 3D printing and artificial intelligence will restructure international trade. Within this framework I call upon Member States to support and develop the competences of local companies so they become part of added value chains, and to introduce the appropriate policies to support innovation and remove restrictions to entrepreneurship activities.

Last year, the Bank initiated the implementation of a pilot project named the “Regional Rice Value Chain Programme” which aims at integrating 10 African states in the added value chains of rice production. All partners throughout every value chain stage were identified and emphasis was put on the important role of science, innovation and technology and Islamic financing in this area. The estimated financing cost of this project amounts to US$176 million. It is expected that the income of small farmers in states benefitting from the project will increase by 80% and that these states will achieve self-sufficiency in rice. The Bank has also started adopting the first added value chain based MCPS with Gabon, focusing on the comparative advantages of this state like the construction sector and manganese production. After the implementation of this strategy Gabon is expected to move from being a state that exports raw materials to one that exports manufactured products.

IDBG, with all its entities, will play its role in insurance, trade and encouraging the private sector. I also would like to point out that the Bank Group’s new trend towards decentralisation and more field presence in its Member States will allow it to accelerate the implementation of these programmes, improve the quality of projects and amplify their development effect.

Achieving this vision doubtlessly requires more investment in the human capital through, education, training and empowering. The Bank recently launched an integrated programme in cooperation with the most prominent universities in the world to provide scholarships to prepare the youth to actively participate in the development journey, with emphasis on sustainable science. The Bank has also intensified capacity building programmes in various areas namely capacity building for innovators and entrepreneurs to secure success conditions for their projects and businesses. Within this framework, from 5 to 10 December 2018, in parallel with the Transformers Summit in Cambridge, Britain, the Bank is organising the first academy to support the capacities of the young people who received financing from the Transform Fund which was recently established by the bank with US$500 million, which aims at supporting science, innovation and technology initiatives in our Member States.

It should be noted that the implementation of IsDB Group’s new programmes requires Member States to provide an appropriate investment environment, remove obstacles hindering the flow of investment, especially from the private sector, and adopt policies to transform their economies into a market economy that contributes effectively to socio-economic development. It is important that this transformation takes place within win-win partnerships. In this regard, I would like to emphasize that IsDB Group remains committed to provide technical support to Member States to develop legal frameworks and establish electronic platforms and other tools that contribute to the success of the economic transformation of our Member States and the well-being and prosperity of their people.

Your Excellency Mr. President,
Brothers and sisters,

The promotion of economic and trade cooperation among Member States is a strategic objective of the IsDB Group and has been the major catalyst for its operations since 1975. In this context, I would like to share with you the actions that the Group undertook to this end in 2017:
a) The Bank’s total credit amounted to about US$ 3.9 billion, geared to infrastructure projects in the areas of energy, transportation, water and sanitation, agriculture, health, and education.

b) The Islamic Corporation for the Development of the Private Sector (ICD) approved last year a record financing of US$931 million. It also paid greater attention to overcoming the most difficult obstacles facing the private sector by investing in the financial sector through credit lines, equity investments and infrastructure financing to enhance private sector productive capacity and increase competitiveness in Member States.

c) The International Islamic Trade Finance Corporation (ITFC) increased its trade finance operations by 10% to about US$5 billion, 35% of which was allocated to the least developed Member States, and 88 percent of these operations financed intra-trade. ITFC has launched a number of important programs, such as the “Arab-Africa Trade Bridges” program and the “Aid for Trade Initiative for Arab States”, which ended its first phase late 2017 and will now start its second phase after having completed 28 different projects in the Arab countries. In addition, the ITFC has recently adopted a program for the development of small and medium enterprises in West Africa. It focuses its action on measures to facilitate trade, including through programmes to improve border crossings and customs procedures.

d) The Islamic Corporation for the Insurance of Investment and Export Credit (ICIEC), over the past three years, has provided insurance cover for investment projects and commercial operations in 43 OIC Member States, with a development impact that exceeds US$ 29 billion. I am pleased to inform you that ICIEC has recently launched a new initiative called COMCEC Business Intelligence Centre (CBIC), which is expected to significantly contribute to enhancing Member States’ credit systems by boosting private sector lending in the region by US$670 billion annually. It will also help to substantially increase intra-OIC trade.

e) In the field of science and research, the Islamic Research and Training Institute (IRTI) has played an effective role in developing the capacities of all IsDB Member States in the various areas of economic and social development. The topics it covered were not limited to Islamic banking and its role in achieving sustainable development but included other development areas such as public-private partnership, project evaluation, monetary policy, Blockchain, and development issues (intra-trade, microfinance, employment and transportation).
f) Currently, the Bank is in the process of finalizing its strategy for regional cooperation and integration in preparation for its implementation starting from the first half of next year. It will be broken down into sub-regional programmes covering various economic sectors, including energy, agriculture and transportation. Under this strategy, a large share of the Bank’s annual approvals will be allocated to regional projects. We hope that these regional projects will lead to greater integration among Member States.

Excellencies,

Brothers and sisters,

In connection with the theme of this thirty-fourth session, “Facilitating Trade: Improving Customs Risk Management Systems in the OIC Member States”, it is worth noting that the IsDB Group has devoted special attention to trade facilitation among Member States over the past five years, particularly following the adoption of the Trade Facilitation Agreement in 2013 at the 9th Conference of the World Trade Organization in Bali, Indonesia. Indeed, the Group has implemented capacity building and training programmes in cooperation with the World Customs Organization, the World Trade Organization, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development and the United Nations regional commissions, in addition to reverse linkages from Member States well advanced in these areas.

I would like to emphasize that the new orientations, innovative mechanisms and programs, currently adopted by the IsDB Group, will contribute -by the Grace of Allah- to a quantum leap in the economic performance of Member States and to their prominent positioning within the global value chains and to creating a significant development impact for all segments of society so that no one is left behind.

In conclusion, I would like to extend my sincere thanks to all Member States for their continued support to the IsDB Group. I wish full success to this 34th Session, hoping it will come up with practical recommendations and proposals to promote and enhance cooperation between our Member States in the economic and trade fields.

Wassalamu Alaikom Wa Rahmatullahi Wa Barakatuh

Implementation of the COMCEC Strategy: Contributions of the OIC Institutions to the COMCEC Strategy

4. Emphasizing the significance of the contributions of the OIC Institutions to the realization of the COMCEC Strategy and the COMCEC Ministerial Policy Recommendations, the Committee reviewed the completed and planned activities for the relevant OIC Institutions, aligned with the COMCEC Strategy for the periods of December 2017- November 2018 and December 2018-November 2019 based on the cooperation areas, namely trade, transport and communications, tourism, agriculture, poverty alleviation and financial cooperation. The Committee was also briefed by the relevant OIC Institutions on their planned activities.

(The list of activities organized and to be organized by the OIC Institutions aligned with the COMCEC Strategy between November 2017 and November 2019 is attached as Annex 1.)

5. The Committee was informed by the CCO that out of 205 activities of the OIC Institutions listed in completed activities since the 33rd Session of the COMCEC, 39 percent of the activities were implemented in poverty alleviation area followed by trade (%33) and financial cooperation (%9). The Committee was also informed that with respect to types of the activities, the Institutions specially focused on trainings and technical assistance programs (%34.1), fairs, exhibition, forums (%19.5) and workshops (%13.2).

6. The Committee welcomed the proposal of the ICIEC (IDB Group) to add brief notes of the OIC Institutions regarding their achievements, programmes and activities since the previous COMCEC Session as an annex to the Report of the Sessional Committee Meetings. The Committee requested the CCO in collaboration with the ICIEC (IDB Group) to prepare a template for the abovementioned brief notes and circulate it to the OIC Institutions for receiving their feedbacks and comments. The Committee also requested the OIC Institutions to submit brief notes on their main achievements in line with this template to the next Meeting of the Sessional Committee.

7. For sensitizing the OIC Institutions on the programs and activities of each other, the Committee requested all the OIC Institutions to inform/invite each other to their relevant activities.
8. The Committee highlighted the importance of the works of the COMCEC Working Groups where detailed research reports, specific policy recommendations and capacity needs of the member countries are discussed by the Member Country experts in the specified themes. With a view to better addressing the needs and challenges of the Member Countries, the Committee requested the IDB Group to benefit more from the COMCEC research reports, which includes various field studies and the outcomes of the Working Group Meetings in designing their programmes, activities and drafting their country partnership strategies. The Committee welcomed the IDB Group’s offer to the CCO for making a study visit to the IDB Headquarters for discussing a methodology for sharing the outcomes of the COMCEC Working Group Meetings and research reports.

9. The Committee underscored that the OIC Institutions shall give due regard to the Ministerial Policy Recommendations as well as the Working Group themes for the period 2019-2021 in planning their future cooperation activities and programs. With a view to better reflecting the activities of the OIC Institutions aligned with COMCEC Strategy and Policy Recommendations adopted at the Ministerial level, the Committee requested the OIC Institutions to indicate specifically the relevance between the activities and the policy recommendations in their lists of activities.

10. The CCO informed the Committee about the sectoral themes to be supported by the COMCEC Coordination Office in the 7th Project Call to be made in September 2019, under the COMCEC Project Funding. In this regard, the Committee underlined the importance of the submission of the project proposals by the OIC Institutions through COMCEC Project Funding for the realization of the COMCEC Ministerial Policy Recommendations. The Committee also underscored that the COMCEC Ministerial Policy Recommendations should be utilized by the OIC Institutions in planning their future cooperation activities and programs.

11. The Committee welcomed the proposal of the ICIEC (IDB Group) to establish an e-platform to monitor the implementation of the planned activities of the OIC Institutions. The Committee requested the ICIEC (IDB Group) in collaboration with the SESRIC to prepare the details of this proposal and submit it to the next Sessional Committee Meeting to be considered as a separate agenda item.

Possible Contributions of the OIC Institutions to the Implementation of the SDGs in the OIC Member States

12. The Committee was informed by the SESRIC on the results of the “Tendency Survey on SDG Priorities of OIC Member Countries” circulated to the Member Countries in line with the relevant resolution of the 33rd Session of the COMCEC. It was noted that 36 member countries have communicated their completed or partial responses to the SESRIC. The SESRIC informed the participants that the Member Countries prioritized the following eight SDGs respectively:

1. SDG-1 titled “End poverty in all its forms everywhere”,
2. SDG-3 titled “Ensure healthy lives and promote well-being for all at all ages”,
3. SDG-2 titled “End hunger, achieve food security and improved nutrition and promote sustainable agriculture”,
4. SDG-4 titled “Ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all”,
5. SDG-5 titled “Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls”,
6. SDG 8 titled “Promote sustained, inclusive and sustainable economic growth, full and productive employment and decent work for all”,
7. SDG 9 titled “Build resilient infrastructure, promote inclusive and sustainable industrialization and foster innovation”,
8. SDG-13 titled “Take urgent action to combat climate change and its impacts.”

13. The Committee was also informed that SESRIC has prepared a report on the Member Countries’ survey responses to be submitted to the 34th COMCEC Ministerial Session.

14. The Committee was informed by the CCO of the “List of Activities of the OIC Institutions Related to the SDGs for the period of 2018 and 2019” which was compiled by the CCO in line with the relevant resolution of the 33rd COMCEC Ministerial Session. The Committee requested the OIC Institutions to give due regard to the needs and priorities of the Member Countries, which was presented by the SESRIC via the SESRIC’s above-mentioned tendency survey, while planning their activities related to the SDGs and report to the CCO their activities directly related to the SDGs.

(The list of activities organized and to be organized by the OIC Institutions related to the SDGs between 2018-2019 is attached as Annex 2.)

15. The Committee underlined that the OIC-UN Coordination Meetings can be utilized for informing the UN bodies about the SDG-related efforts of the OIC Institutions.
Implementation of the Economic Cooperation Section of the OIC-2025 Programme of Action

16. The OIC General Secretariat informed the Committee about the recent developments towards the implementation of the OIC-2025 Programme of Action. The Committee highlighted the importance of effective cooperation and coordination among the OIC Institutions concerning realization of the goals defined by the OIC-2025: Programme of Action. It was noted that the 4th Meeting of ACMOI will be held on 3-4 December 2018 with the participation of the OIC Organs/Institutions.

The Proposal on the “Business Intelligence Center”

17. The ICIEC (IDB Group) made a presentation on “Draft Final Report for Business Intelligence Center”. The Committee took note with appreciation of the proposal and the efforts of the ICIEC (IDB Group) on realization of the project. The Committee highlighted the importance of and need for further elaboration regarding its organizational structure, legal framework and other technical details. The issue will be elaborated during the 34th COMCEC Session.

Trade Related Statistics

18. The Committee highlighted the importance of harmonizing the trade related statistics in the publications of the OIC Institutions. In this regard, the Committee requested the CCO, ICDT and SESRIC to utilize the possible venues, including the next COMCEC Trade Working Group Meeting to study and elaborate on the methodologies used for calculating OIC trade data with a view to harmonizing them.

19. The Committee Meeting ended with a vote of thanks.
ANNEX
ADDRESS BY H.E. FUAT OKTAY,
VICE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF TURKEY
AT THE CLOSING SESSION OF THE
34TH THE MINISTERIAL SESSION OF THE COMCEC
(Istanbul, 29 November 2018)

Esteemed Ministers,
Distinguished Participants,

_Essalamu Alaikum Wa Rahmatullahi Wa Barakatuh_

We have successfully concluded the 34th Session of the COMCEC after fruitful discussions.

In this year’s meeting, we have held many beneficial and special sessions on “trade facilitation”, and particularly on the subject of “customs risk management”.

I would like to thank the delegations of member countries, the representatives of international organizations and our panelists for their contributions to the 34th Session of COMCEC.

Esteemed Participants,

As we are all very well aware, countries today are leaning more and more towards protectionist policies in world economy and trade, while the competitive atmosphere and uncertainties in the international arena are gradually growing.

In this respect, we need to focus on the structural problems that reduce our productivity and our competitiveness in global markets.

Rather than remaining dependent on the export of raw materials and a few agricultural products, our target should be to build an effective and high added value economy centered on production.

In this context, we should diversify our range of products as well as our trade partners, especially among countries of the Organization for Islamic Cooperation, and take firm steps towards creating a production-based economy that generates high added value.
The share of Organization for Islamic Cooperation’ countries in global trade was 9.5 percent in 2017. Considering that the geography of the Organization for Islamic Cooperation constitutes approximately 23 percent of the world population, it is clear that our share in the global trade is very low.

On the other hand, in 2017, products that demand high skills and technology have accounted for 44 percent of the Organization for Islamic Cooperation countries’ exported goods.\(^1\)

This is indeed a very positive development.

However, it is essential that we strive to raise these figures even more, so that we may obtain a higher share in global production and trade, and compensate for our losses of the past.

Honorable Ministers,
Distinguished Delegates,

As emphasized by President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan in yesterday’s inaugural speech, in addition to witnessing economic turmoils affecting the globe, we are deeply grieved by the current state of the Muslim world.

The blood of Muslims is being shed in Syria, Yemen, Libya and Palestine, while in many parts of the world, Muslims are struggling for their very survival in the harshest of conditions.

Conflicts between Muslims are being fanned to target our unity, our solidarity, our richness in every sense of the word, and our future, with an ongoing effort to collapse Muslim countries from within.

On one hand, the names of terrorist organizations acting as the puppets of dark forces are being associated with Islam, while on the other hand, cases of hostility and discrimination against Muslims are increasing all across the world.

It is our responsibility as well as our duty to halt this course of events.

In the Quran, our Rab commands us to remain united.

\(^1\) OIC Exports by Degree of Manufacturing, UNCTADSTAT
As we all know, the Surah Al-Hujurat tell us: “İnnemâl mu’minûne ihvetun”. “The believers are but brothers”.

We must, first of all, follow this command of Rab.

Together, and as siblings, we must fight against any type of wrong and injustice Muslims face.

We must start this fight today, without further delay.

To achieve this, it suffice that we hold onto the guidance of our Rab and act in unison.

With our efforts, the Muslim community will continue to remain steadfast, unmoved by all the problems that are being imposed on it externally.

Distinguished participants,
To ensure that the Muslim world attains a stronger economy and has a prosperous future, we need to utilize such important mechanisms as COMCEC more effectively.

In this context, to develop trade within COMCEC and between member countries, we need to implement the Trade Preferential System between Organization for Islamic Cooperation at the soonest.

As we do this, we must, as emphasized by His Excellency President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan, use our national currencies in our trade.

To protect ourselves from exchange rate manipulations, we have no other choice but to use our own national and indigenous currencies.

To increase the flow of foreign capital into our countries and to increase the efficiency of our investments, we need to take the necessary measures in a timely manner, and to create a suitable investment environment in our countries.

While the share of the countries of the Organization for Islamic Cooperation in foreign direct investments (FDI) was 10.2 percent in 2010, this fell down to 5.3 percent in 2016.

Although this share climbed to 7.4 percent in 2017, it still lags far behind our potential.
Distinguished Guests,

As you know, to alleviate the effects of the global financial crisis in 2008, the G-20 meeting was raised to the level of a meeting between heads of state. One of the main items on the agenda of the G-20 that gathered in Argentina this week was “the liberalization of trade” to prevent global economic contraction caused by the trade wars between the US and China.

In fact, I believe it is an important opportunity for OIC countries that the Term Chairman of the OIC, the President of the Republic of Turkey, will participate in this meeting and voice at the highest level the instrument of trade facilitation, which we have been discussing for the past two days.

In this context, the best response to this protectionist wave would be the reduction of costs through the facilitation of trade, and especially the elimination of tariffs and non-tariff barriers as well as the simplification of customs procedures.

As expressed by the delegation of Senegal in the meeting we held yesterday, we should increase our efforts for the facilitation of trade.

In this respect, it is important that more countries become parties to the World Trade Organization’s Trade Facilitation Agreement.

After the World Trade Organization’s Trade Facilitation Agreement has entered into effect following its ratification by more than 110 countries, I believe that all member countries should actively support its implementation.

Customs is one of the most critical component of the trade facilitation process and of the chain of supply.

To facilitate trade and ensure safe commerce, we must implement the right and effective risk management procedures in our customs.

As expressed by Mr. Sonneh, the Miniser of Trade, Industry and Regional Integration of Gambia, the simplification of procedures, as well as the modernization of infrastructure and the adoption of information technologies at customs, are of great importance.
I sincerely believe that the set of policy recommendations we have adopted today on “Facilitating Trade: Improving Customs Risk Management Systems in Organization for Islamic Cooperation Member States” will guide us and provide us with important clues on the way towards trade facilitation and customs risk management in our countries.

Esteemed Ministers,
Distinguished Delegates,

At the 34th Session of COMCEC, we have also taken important decisions and adopted policy recommendations in key areas of cooperation, such as trade, transport and communication, tourism, agriculture, financial cooperation and poverty reduction.

We have reached the final stage for the implementation of the OIC Trade Preferential System, which is the first multilateral trade agreement to cover the Muslim world.

We have also reached the final stage in the work for the establishment of the IIT Arbitration Center, to be established in Istanbul.

The center is set to become operational in 2019.

We have taken the decision to initiate a program within the SESRIC and Islamic Development Bank for establishing a center among for commercial intelligence between Muslim countries.

In addition to all these developments, we have approved the founding of the OIC-COMCEC Central Banks Forum, while also deciding to give momentum to the efforts for the implementation of the COMCEC Gold Exchange and the COMCEC Real Estate Exchange Projects.

I fully believe that all member countries will demonstrate the necessary efforts to realize these decisions.

In this context, we are provided an effective and flexible financing opportunity by the COMCEC Project Finance mechanism.

Under this mechanism, 17 capacity building projects, from which 36 Islamic countries are benefitting, have been successfully implemented this year. I invite all member countries to benefit more effectively from this mechanism.
Esteemed Ministers
Distinguished Delegates,

I deem it very appropriate that next year’s Ministers’ Session of the COMCEC will address the subject of “Promoting Sustainable Food Systems in Islamic Countries”.

I believe that this is a very pertinent and timely theme as the Islamic World.

Before concluding, I would like to thank all member country delegations, the General Secretariat of the Organization for Islamic Cooperation, the Institutions of the Organization for Islamic Cooperation and other international organizations for their valuable contributions.

I would also like to express my thanks to the COMCEC Coordination Office, our translators and interpreters, and all staff taking part in the organization of our meeting, for their valuable efforts in ensuring the successful execution of this meeting.

I hope that our discussions, deliberations and decisions taken in the Ministers Exchange of Views Session will bear beneficial results and deepen our cooperation as the Islamic Ummah.

Hoping that you will return to your countries with happy memories from Istanbul, I wish you all a safe return back home.

I would like to thank you all individually for your participation and contributions. I wish all of you a good trip, and take care good care of yourselves.

Thank you very much.

Esselamu Alaikum wa Rahmetullahi wa Barakatuhu.

POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS
OF THE WORKING GROUP MEETINGS

1. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE TRADE WORKING GROUP

1.1. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 11TH MEETING OF THE TRADE WORKING GROUP FOR THE EXCHANGE OF VIEWS SESSION OF 34TH COMCEC SESSION

The 33rd COMCEC Session agreed on “Facilitating Trade: Improving Customs Risk Management Systems in the OIC Member States” as the theme for the Exchange of Views Session at the 34th Session of the COMCEC and requested the COMCEC Trade Working Group (TWG) to come up with concrete policy recommendations on this topic and report it to the 34th COMCEC Ministerial Session. Along with the issues related to customs risk management, the WG also considered the challenges and possible policy options related to various aspects of trade facilitation. In this framework, the Working Group, come up with the following challenges and problems as well as the policy options for facilitating trade and improving customs risk management in the member countries.

Challenges and Problems:

In addition to the challenges related to high trade costs; non-tariff barriers and limited awareness of relevant stakeholders about the economic gains from trade facilitation; the Trade Working Group highlighted the following possible challenges and problems in trade facilitation and CRM:

Simplification and Harmonization of Trade Procedures

- Cumbersome trade procedures and documentation;
- Harmonization challenges in trade procedures and documentation;
- Need to simplify procedures for authorized traders with high compliance;
- Complex and outdated import and export requirements;
- Special case of Palestinian Customs- as they have no control on clearance procedures due to the absence of ports and borders, and their efforts for simplification of customs clearance procedures and trade facilitation confront major hindrances from the Israeli side

Customs Risk Management

- Limited coordination among the relevant stakeholders with respect to customs risk management
- Need for a sound risk management strategy for improving the CRM performances and modernization efforts;
- Inadequate IT infrastructure required for customs risk management
Insufficient use of audit-based controls and risk assessment techniques;
Lack of integrated customs risk management system

Legal and Institutional Framework
- Lack of strategic framework which will enable concerting efforts between public and private stakeholders for the national trade facilitation reform;
- Need for better national coordination
- Inadequate legal framework;
- Inadequate information and transparency on trade-related laws; regulations, procedures and inadequate public availability;
- Low level of co-ordination and communication among the relevant border agencies;

Infrastructure and Modernization
- Inadequate transport infrastructure (roads, posts, border points etc.)
- Limited physical infrastructure (buildings, equipment, etc.);
- Inadequate customs administrative capacity (technical, financial and human capacity);
- Limited use of information technology and automation as well as inter-operable data-sharing system;

Harmonization and alignment of product standards and conformity
- Need for the alignment of product standards with international standards;
- Need for the development of “quality infrastructure”\(^2\) (e.g. insufficient number of accredited laboratories at the national level)

Transit Trade
- Inadequate transit systems
- Limited cooperation between agencies of countries involved in transit trade
- Insufficient pre-arrival processing for transit facilitation

International Cooperation
- Unaligned operating hours at Customs offices across countries;
- Need for an information exchange mechanism which allows electronic exchange of data between and among OIC customs administrations

\(^2\) "A quality infrastructure is the totality of the institutional framework (whether public or private) put in place to formulate, issue, and implement standards and the associated evidence of compliance (i.e., the relevant mix of inspection, testing, certification, metrology, and accreditation) in order to improve the suitability of products, processes, and services for their intended purposes; prevent barriers to trade; and facilitate technological cooperation.” (UNECE, designing and implementing trade facilitation in Asia and Pacific, 2013)
Policy Recommendations

In light of the above-mentioned challenges and problems, TWG came up with a set of policy recommendations:

1. Simplifying trade procedures and documentation

- Conducting needs assessments by national authorities and the relevant international organizations to highlight the challenges and obstacles in ensuring the efficiency of customs procedures
- Promoting the adoption of international standards in customs procedures and related matters for harmonizing and simplifying data, documents and procedures related to the cross border trade and logistics operations consistent with national rules and regulations
- Streamlining customs law, regulations and procedures in line with the international standards to facilitate trade.
- Enhancing supportive IT infrastructure for automation of customs and other border agency procedures for imports, exports and transit formalities.
- Developing interoperable Single Window Systems as a trade facilitation tool to simplify and expedite import, export and transit formalities in the interested member countries.

Improving Customs Risk Management

- Developing/upgrading customs risk management (CRM) systems used by customs authorities to identify high risk areas while facilitating the legitimate trade;
- Establishing a risk management committee and developing an efficient and effective risk management strategy for improving the CRM performances and modernization efforts;
- Exchange of information in real-time with national and international agencies;
- Maintaining adequate IT support for the electronic submission of pre-arrival/pre-departure information for risk assessment;
- Using advanced techniques and tools for risk assessment; such as usage of appropriate statistical models etc.
- Utilizing Integrated CRM system including Data Warehouse, Business Intelligence, and Data Mining;
- Enhancing customs audit based controls; including post-clearance
- Developing integrated customs risk management system

3 "A Single Window is a facility that allows parties involved in trade and transport to lodge standardized information and documents with a single entry point to fulfill all import, export, and transit-related regulatory requirements.” (UNECE Recommendation No 33)
Promoting authorized economic operators program to facilitate the cross border movement of goods treated by low-risk operators;

Implementing joint or coordinated controls at border posts where appropriate, in consultation with other Customs administrations to facilitate trade (e.g. one stop shop);

2. Legal and Regulatory Framework

Calling for strong political and stakeholder support for the effective implementation of trade facilitation measures

Developing a strategic planning framework and preparing a National Strategic Plan with a view to ensure coordination and collaboration among public and private stakeholders

Establishing well-functioning national trade facilitation bodies for enhancing coordination among the relevant stakeholders through effective communication systems

Encouraging national trade facilitation monitoring mechanisms in order to measure the progress in trade facilitation over time and take the necessary measures accordingly.

Encouraging the governments to access to the relevant international conventions for standardizing the customs-related procedures

Enhancing effective publication of trade rules and regulations (such as laws, decrees, changes in regulations, tariffs, fees and charges, working hours and announcements) through establishing trade portals and websites for allowing more transparent dissemination of import, export, and transit requirements and issuance of advance ruling.

3. Physical Infrastructure and Modernization

Supporting customs modernization efforts through improving customs related infrastructure with information and communication technology and non-intrusive inspection technology to enhance the effectiveness and efficiency of customs

Enhancing human resources via training and continuous capacity building the existing staff and employing new staff having digital skills.

Encouraging Public-Private Partnerships for improving customs infrastructure as well as enhancing customs modernization

4. Harmonization and alignment of standards and conformity

Strengthening harmonization, alignment of standards and conformity assessment procedures with international standards.

Participating actively in the work of international standards bodies so that the resulting norms can be applicable to the particular circumstances of the Member Countries, as appropriate
• Developing/Strengthening National “Quality Infrastructure” in order to facilitate access to the international markets.

5. Adopting Measures to facilitate Transit Trade

• Improving the usage of risk assessment to facilitate transit trade
• Considering transit agreements with neighboring countries, as appropriate
• Encouraging pre-arrival processing for transit facilitation
• Strengthening cooperation between agencies of countries involved in transit trade

6. Regional/International Cooperation

• Enhancing information exchange among the border agencies of the Member Countries with a view to facilitating trade
• Promoting mutual recognition agreements for border controls and authorized economic operators,
• Promoting cross-border interconnectivity and interoperability of the national Single Window Systems towards establishing sub-regional Single Window Systems in the OIC Member Countries.
• Conducting experience sharing programmes in the field of trade facilitation (expert exchange or trainings and best practices etc.) among the Member Countries especially by the relevant OIC Institutions.
• Improving the infrastructure of land border crossing points such as reciprocal modernization and automation of customs and transport connectivity through the joint efforts of the interested neighboring countries.
• Supporting the efforts aiming to acquire Palestinian’s right to establish their own customs warehouses and clearance centers.

1.2. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 12TH MEETING OF THE TRADE WORKING GROUP
The COMCEC Trade Working Group (TWG) has successfully held its 12th Meeting on November 6th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “Improving Authorized Economic Operator Programs in the OIC Member Countries.” During the Meeting, Trade Working Group, made deliberations for policy approximation among the Member Countries regarding developing authorized economic operator programs. The Room Document, prepared in accordance with the main findings of the research report conducted specifically for the 12th Meeting of the COMCEC Trade Working Group and the answers of the Member Countries to the policy questions sent to the COMCEC Trade Working Group focal points by the COMCEC Coordination Office. During the Meeting, the participants agreed on the policy recommendations included in the Room Document. The existing document includes these policy recommendations highlighted during the Meeting.

Policy Advice 1: Encouraging the design of an attractive package where benefits provided by the AEO program to the private sector outnumber costs borne by firms and traders in order to attract companies to participate in the program

AEO programs aim at facilitating trade and contributing safety and security. Considering the fact that AEO is a voluntary program, attracting companies to participate in the program has vital importance. Therefore, the benefits provided by the AEO program to the private sector need to be evaluated in relation to the costs borne by firms and traders to obtain authorization. Such costs include application and procedure-related fees, and the costs of carrying out the necessary changes to become eligible for authorization. The EU case provides a good example for package design, where AEO guidelines are published and updated by the Taxation and Customs Unit. The guidelines provide a clear demonstration of benefits, procedures, legal texts and contact offices for agents wishing to obtain authorization.

In this respect, while designing a package, at least, the following benefits are suggested to be satisfied:

- Immediate release of cargo upon arrival by Customs and other government agencies.
- Deferred payment of duties and taxes
- Relief from guarantee/bond requirements

Policy Advice 2: Promoting an integrated approach in the legislative, organizational and operational dimensions with other government agencies during the design phase of AEOs in order to eliminate duplications and redundancy as well as burdensome procedures
Design of the AEO program should follow an integrated approach taking into account its multiple dimensions (legislative, organizational and operational). During the design phase, legislative and regulatory reform is often needed along with possible organizational restructuring and alignment with other government agencies (OGAs). In many countries, overlap is often present between Customs Authorities and OGAs involved in border security and control of exports and imports. Consultation and alignment with other government agencies during the design phase is therefore crucial to avoid redundant and burdensome procedures in areas of overlap.

A centralized and automated data exchange system between different AEOs and related government agencies can be adopted, where applicable. The import/export declarations of the trader can be sent to all stakeholders in a safe and secure electronic environment for their examination, verification and authorization of transactions. Next, the government agencies can either authorize electronically or require physical inspection.

Policy Advice 3: Encouraging the adoption of and increasing the number of mutual recognition agreements (MRAs) as they enable AEO holders to enjoy trade facilitation benefits provided by the partner countries

Mutual Recognition Agreements (MRAs) make it possible for AEO holders to enjoy the trade facilitation benefits provided by the partner countries. They also contribute the security of the supply chain due to recognition of AEO status across partner countries.

Once MRAs are signed, maintaining compliance and risk management would become more effective and would lead to new MRAs. Standardization and harmonization of supply chain security measures are integral part of any effective MRAs.

Expanding the number of MRAs would also serve to form the foundations of regional AEO program which will provide facilitation gains to companies across the OIC Member Countries.

Policy Advice 4: Enhancing the communication with the private sector with AEOs through utilizing client relations management

AEO programs are voluntary-based and heavily depend on open communication channels between the Customs Authority and the stakeholders. Insufficient consultation with the private sector can be challenging as it may cause potential misconceptions about the anticipated benefits, thereby reducing the incentives for companies from becoming an AEO.

Client Relations Management that is used by a number of OIC AEO programs increases the attractiveness and the viability of the AEO programs and improves the communication with the private sector.
Policy Advice 5: Supporting the participation of SMEs in the supply chain in order to benefit from the AEO programs to their full extent

SMEs comprise a backbone and vital part of the supply chain in the economies. However, due to the capacity and financial challenges, SMEs may not benefit from the AEO programs and have difficulties to participate in the supply chain.

Utilizing Customs brokers with AEO status can facilitate participation of SMEs’ in AEO program. Hence, SMEs can enjoy almost all procedural benefits of AEO status while diminishing the cost of further investment.

Among the OIC member countries, Jordan offers an AEO-like program called the Silver List to incentivize SMEs to participate in trade practices that are compliant and safe by offering some of the trade facilitations in the Golden List program. Furthermore, successful Silver List participants are invited to apply for the Golden List program.

Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Trade Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner and also other issues related to trade facilitation.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office calls for project proposals each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the Member Countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For the above-mentioned policy areas and their sub-areas, the Member Countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding and the COMCEC Coordination Office may finance the successful projects. The projects may include seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparing analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents, etc.

2. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF TRANSPORT AND COMMUNICATIONS WORKING GROUP

2.1. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 11TH MEETING OF THE TRANSPORT AND COMMUNICATIONS WORKING GROUP
The COMCEC Transport and Communications Working Group (TCWG) successfully held its 11th Meeting on March 15th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “Governance of Transport Corridors in OIC Member States: Challenges, Cases, and Policy Lessons”. During the Meeting, TCWG made deliberations on the policy recommendations related to the governance of transport corridors. The policy recommendations were formulated by taking into consideration the research report titled “Governance of Transport Corridors in OIC Member States: Challenges, Cases, and Policy Lessons” and the responses of the Member States to the policy questions sent by the COMCEC Coordination Office. The policy recommendations are as follows:

Policy Recommendation I: Developing/Improving an enabling legal, institutional and regulatory framework for ensuring effective coordination and cooperation among the relevant countries and for achieving reform-demanding objectives.

Rationale:
A strong legal and institutional framework, defining common objectives and plans is a pre-requisite for effective coordination among the countries and implementation of the objectives for the development of the corridor. Ambitious objectives without a sound legal and institutional framework make it difficult to achieve reform-demanding objectives. The legal framework is determined as creating binding or non-binding incentives to reach the identified common objectives. Once the consensus is reached between the different stakeholders on the objectives and management of the corridor, the process of creating a legal basis begins. Legal framework typically cover the overall strategic perspective of the corridor in various levels, institutional arrangements, working principles and financing issues. It can also covers sanctions in case of non-compliance, prioritisation systems or sustainability goals. The commitment and willingness by the members to reach a common objective is expressed through legal and institutional framework. Hence, national reforms and investments are more effective when considered from a regional perspective, ideally coordinated with neighbouring countries.

Policy Recommendation II: Establishing a dedicated corridor secretariat/coordination unit for facilitating corridor governance through ensuring permanent communication and coordination among the relevant countries.

Rationale:
The presence of a dedicated secretariat is critical for the effective corridor governance. The function of the secretariat is to maintain the dialogue among all relevant countries and stakeholders. In this respect, a corridor secretariat has a catalyst function towards improved corridor governance by preparing meetings, ensuring communication and coordination among the countries, transforming the objectives into action as well as fund raising for development of the corridor. Furthermore, a dedicated secretariat is also critical for formulating long-term strategies, analysing the current trends and practices, collecting of data and statistics as well as setting performance indicators and monitors their implementation.

Policy Recommendation III: Promoting the development of transport corridor governance in a holistic way, combining hard measures such as infrastructure and soft measures such as political support, stakeholder consultation and capacity building.

Rationale:
Effective corridor governance is a key factor towards successful development of transnational transport corridors. Corridor governance is a complex process involving various aspects such as legal and institutional matters, as well as multiple stakeholders, often from various countries. Furthermore, governance requires various hard and soft measures that are interrelated and need to be developed in a harmonized way. These measures are; infrastructure, legal and institutional framework, corridor objectives and political support, corridor performance monitoring and dissemination, corridor promotion and stakeholder consultation, and capacity building. Developing transport corridors serves to multiple objectives including facilitation of trade by providing access to markets, regional integration, improving growth prospects, enhancing cooperation and collaboration among countries and related public and private sector agencies.

Policy Recommendation IV: Seeking support of the related international organizations in carrying forward corridor governance, especially in the initial phase of corridor development.

Rationale:
Corridor governance depends on a range of factors, such as maturity of the corridor, political will and support, regional stability, the presence of an international organisation facilitating corridor governance, and funding availability. In this respect, international organisations play a decisive role not only in the establishment of a corridor but also in improving corridor governance. The knowledge, accumulation, resources and the role of international organisations as independent mediators are valuable for consensus building among the relevant countries, providing structure, as well as some initial funding in the beginning of the process. With the Abidjan-Lagos Corridor (ALC), the World Bank played a key role in initiating the corridor. Both for South-East Europe Transport Observatory (SEETO) and notably Transport Corridor Europe-Caucasus-Asia (TRACECA), the EU had a prominent role in bringing together the member states, negotiating the legal framework, commissioning studies, hosting training sessions and more. For the Eurasian Central Corridor, UNESCAP is playing a similar role by publishing strategic documents and performance studies to justify the establishment of governance institution on a corridor level. The initial efforts of international organisations are useful to convince the member states on the merits of joint corridor development.

Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Transport and Communications Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office calls for projects each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the Member Countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For the above-mentioned policy areas, the Member Countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding and the COMCEC Coordination Office may finance the successful projects in this regard. These projects may include organizing seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparing analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents.

2.2. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 12TH MEETING OF THE TRANSPORT AND COMMUNICATIONS WORKING GROUP

The COMCEC Transport and Communications Working Group (TCWG) successfully held its 12th Meeting on October 11th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “Planning of National Transport Infrastructure in the OIC Countries”. During the Meeting, TCWG made deliberations on the policy recommendations related to the transport infrastructure planning. The policy recommendations were formulated by taking into consideration the research report titled “Planning of National Transport Infrastructure in the Islamic Countries” and the responses of the Member States to the policy questions sent by the COMCEC Coordination Office. The policy recommendations are as followings:

Policy Recommendation I: Developing guidelines for the preparation and implementation of national transport master plans by taking into consideration international best practices towards having more integrated and sustainable land and transport plans and solutions.

Rationale:
Transport planning is a comprehensive subject that is linked with various social, economic and environmental factors. Transport planning includes not only road, rail, and other infrastructure but operations and management to ensure that modes of transport do not compete but complement each other. Transport planning is also crucial for ensuring a well functioning urban transport. In addition to motorized transport, the importance of non-motorised transport is becoming clearer, especially cycling and pedestrianization. Smarter planning is achieving more with less. It is a complex process, therefore, developing guidelines, including a template for a national transport masterplan, that take international best practices into consideration, is of vital importance to facilitate successful preparation and implementation of transport master plans in OIC Member States.

Policy Recommendation II: Identifying comprehensive and relevant Key Performance Indicators for the effective monitoring and evaluation of the performance of transport plans and their outcomes, and sharing the results with the relevant public and private sector stakeholders.

Rationale:
Monitoring and evaluation is very important for ensuring smooth implementation of the national transport infrastructure plans. It is about self-learning meant for the project owner. However, this process is carried out by few of the member states only. Nonetheless, only some member countries have a such a system. Identifying and compiling various key performance indicators (KPIs) is critically important for measuring the progress and making sound evaluations. KPIs are also useful for benchmarking, setting targets, raising standards, and the successes/failures. The followings are the most commonly used KPIs for transport master plans;
• Present Value of Benefits (PVB) – total discounted benefits during the appraisal period
• Present Value of Costs (PVC) – total discounted economic costs incurred during the appraisal period
• Economic Net Present value (ENPV) – the absolute size of the project net benefits.
• Benefit to Cost Ratio (BCR) – the ratio between total benefit and costs. This gives the relative size of the project net benefits but is independent of project size
• Economic Internal Rate of Return (EIRR) – Similar to BCR it is independent of project size and gives an indication of the scale of benefits relative to the investment cost.

Policy Recommendation III: Improving the planning capacity of the OIC member states through applying contemporary methods such as setting a vision with a set of social and economic objectives.

Rationale:
The quality and effectiveness of the infrastructure investment plans are of utmost importance for attracting investments and to leverage private sector interest. Improving the capacity for preparing transport master plans and infrastructure investment plans including human skills, processes, and tools is vital for ensuring the adequate quality. In this framework, a mechanism for assessment of the institutional capacity of relevant agencies can be developed and planning tools, including econometric and transport modeling and the use and application of big data can be utilized.

Policy Recommendation IV: Improving national transport infrastructure planning process and encouraging public private partnerships (PPPs) particularly for needs assessment, encouraging investments, well-functioning operations and maintenance.

Rationale:
Involvement of both private and public sectors is vital for the successful design, implementation and evaluation of a national transport infrastructure plan. Active stakeholder involvement would contribute to the success of effective operations and maintenance, as well as sound in all modes of transport. The contribution of public private partnerships to the effective implementation of transport master plan can be revealed through making ex-ante and ex-post evaluations. Furthermore, general public opinion and public consultation during the transport planning process and implementation are vital for better transport infrastructure planning.
Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Transport and Communications Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office calls for projects each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the Member Countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For the above-mentioned policy areas, the Member Countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding and the COMCEC Coordination Office may finance the successful projects in this regard. These projects may include organizing seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparing analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents.

3. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE TOURISM WORKING GROUP

3.1. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 11TH MEETING OF THE TOURISM WORKING GROUP
The COMCEC Tourism Working Group (TWG) has successfully held its 11th Meeting on February 15th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “Destination Development and Institutionalization Strategies in the OIC Member Countries.” During the Meeting, Tourism Working Group, made deliberations on destination development and institutionalization strategies in the OIC Member Countries in tourism sector. Accordingly, the participants has come up with some policy recommendations.

Policy Advice 1. Encouraging the establishment of/Strengthening local and regional public-private Destination Management Organizations (DMOs) with the assignment of responsibilities related to destination planning, development, marketing and management.

Rationale:
Destinations need a holistic approach in planning, development, marketing and management that would coordinate and lead various stakeholders as well as integrate their efforts effectively. Existence of a governing body (i.e. DMO) to develop, lead and implement destination wide strategies is of particular importance for a destination’s success.

Destinations have different characteristics and their development, marketing and management need to be customized to local needs. Besides a central governing body (e.g. National Tourism Organization); developing, facilitating and empowering regional and local tourism governance structures (e.g. DMOs) lead to a more effective and efficient use of limited resources. This would also improve stakeholder engagement and participation, internalize external costs and create synergies between different actors.

Effective coordination and communication among various stakeholders is of utmost important for the success of a destination. A public-private legal structure of a DMO can facilitate all stakeholders’ involvement, pooling of knowledge and expertise, and cooperation, coordination as well as communication among the various stakeholders. In this respect, a purely public DMO managed by central governments may not have the necessary efficiency, funding, expertize and outcome orientation whereas a purely private DMO might focus on short-term gains while neglecting sustainable development, the needs of locals and environmental costs associated with tourism activity. Thus a combination of two approaches might create necessary efficiency while ensuring sustainability and transparency. In this framework, DMOs can be managed by private sector and audited by public authorities through a public private partnership.

Policy Advice 2. Planning supply and demand as well as identifying and monitoring KPIs for ensuring sustainable tourism development at the destination.

Rationale:
Traditionally, DMOs mainly focus on destination promotion. However, in developed destinations their role has expanded to cover product development, stakeholder coordination, as well as monitoring, evaluation and ensuring sustainability. Stakeholder engagement, carried by local and regional DMOs, requires effective coordination of various stakeholders including local tourism companies, government bodies, professional associations, universities, the local community and tourists. Since the interests of stakeholders differ, it is important for the DMO to balance the needs of different stakeholders. DMOs should create platforms such as stakeholder meetings and seminars, a digital portal etc. that can facilitate engagement of the various stakeholders. DMOs should also allocate sufficient staff to manage stakeholder relations, planning and representation of destination as a whole.

Countries seeking to attract more tourists often overlook the risk it imposes on natural and cultural resources, as well as its negative effect on the quality of life of the locals. In order to preserve natural environment and economic benefits and to distribute the latter equitably, tourism must be planned, developed and managed within step-by-step, ranging from the local to the territorial or provincial, to the national, and even to the international level. The responsibilities at each level must be clearly identified and implemented. Majority of the OIC Member Countries, have national public governance structures and very few of them have DMOs at regional level. Planning supply and demand and conducting impact analysis at the local level will help avoid overuse of shared resources and prevent underutilization during stagnant periods. Destinations at the development stage should therefore prepare master plans defining their vision of desired future state while preserving the resources. Mature destinations on the other hand are recommended to diversify their products and manage supply and demand at optimum prices in order to avoid overcrowding and low per tourist spending. DMOs should also encourage local participation, entrepreneurship and employment in tourism. Key performance indicators (e.g. average spending, occupancy levels, average length of stay, amount of leakages, level of environmental degradation, extent of community participation) should also be developed.

Policy advice 3. Encouraging self-funding of DMOs and improving efficiency as well as transparency in utilization and management of resources.

Rationale:

Funding DMO activities is a major challenge for countries. Many OIC member countries use public resources to finance local DMOs. On the other hand, other resources can also be utilized for this purpose. When DMOs are encouraged to create their own funds (e.g. membership fees, commissions, marketing contributions, sponsorshipships, ticket sales, project grants, revenues from attractions and convention centres), the demand for public funds decrease. In this framework, while government incubation funds might be utilized during their establishment phases, DMOs should have the ability to finance some of their activities.

The public funding should also be linked with private funding and major KPIs (e.g. tourism tax revenues). Since DMOs are not profit organizations, they should aim to facilitate increased sales and improved sustainability of the region rather than concentrating on improving their own revenues. Therefore, transparent and fair use of funds raised also need to be ensured.

Policy Advice 4. Promoting destinations through forming OIC country alliances and the alliances with external stakeholders.

Rationale:

Complementary OIC cross-border destinations (e.g. national parks, cultural routes) can pool resources and efforts to promote the region as a whole, even an umbrella DMO can be created which might focus on a specific shared travel theme such as mountain climbing or desert safaris. In this respect, OIC Member countries can collaborate to promote each other’s destinations, which would allow them to promote their destination, with limited expenses, to the tourists visiting other complementary OIC destinations.

Additionally, DMOs can form strategic alliances with external stakeholders (e.g. national airlines, sports federations, retail outlets (as in the case of shopping festivals)) for joint projects that would be benefited by both sides. To illustrate, Dubai Department of Tourism and Commerce Marketing formed a strategic alliance with Emirates Airlines to promote the destination. They implemented joint advertising campaigns such as “Hello Dubai” and joint familiarization tours for influencers and journalists. They also jointly offered special promotions aimed at attracting tourists to Dubai, including special airline ticket fares from certain destinations as well as complimentary products such as visas, park tickets etc. They also jointly developed “My Emirates Pass” which offers discounts to tourists for various activities and attractions.

Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Tourism Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.
- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office calls for projects each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the Member Countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For the above-mentioned policy areas, the Member Countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding and the COMCEC Coordination Office may finance the successful projects in this regard. These projects may include organizing seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparing analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents.

- OIC/COMCEC Private Sector Tourism Forum: In its future meetings, the OIC/COMCEC Private Sector Tourism Forum may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas and the sub-areas from the private sector perspective.

3.2. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 12TH MEETING OF THE TOURISM WORKING GROUP

The COMCEC Tourism Working Group (TWG) has successfully held its 12th Meeting on September 13th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “Destination Marketing Strategies in the OIC Member Countries.” During the Meeting, Tourism Working Group, made deliberations on destination marketing strategies in the OIC Member Countries in tourism sector. Accordingly, the participants has come up with some policy recommendations.

Policy Advice 1. Establishing/Empowering a central body (i.e. DMO) to position the destination at a desirable place among the competing destinations, to create the brand image of the destination, and to promote the destination through utilizing such tools as social media, digital marketing, trade fairs, public relations, and fam-trip organizations.

Rationale:

Destinations are composed of different stakeholders and posses different tangible and intangible resources. Tourist create their own experiences by interacting with these stakeholders and resources, thus every destination might offer different experiences and have some characteristics that might help compete other destinations. As dynamic systems, destinations require complex and sophisticated structures to design and implement their marketing strategies. Such a holistic view of destination marketing can be available at national (NTO) and regional (DMO) tourism organizations. In order to use their competitive advantages, destinations need a holistic approach in identifying these resources, converting them into products and unique selling propositions. A DMO can also create a marketing communications strategy and brand image for itself while matching these resources and desirable target markets.

Because the destination offers an overall experience, individual experiences with stakeholders and their marketing communications should also be aligned and consistent with the position of the destination and its brand image. Once the shared image is created it should be reinforced consistently by joint marketing activities such as Fam-trips, attendance to fairs and exhibitions, advertorial in traditional media, social marketing and web presence. Public relations activities (e.g. international news and event) should also support the shared brand vision of the destinations. In addition to their own marketing efforts, DMOs should also encourage individual marketing efforts of the stakeholders such as offering a percentage of selected marketing activities (e.g. attendance to fairs).

Policy Advice 2. Encouraging new product development (i.e. events, festivals and other suitable products) to mitigate the adverse effects of seasonality and the risks related to dependence on one product or a single market.

Rationale:
The products and services offered at the destination and their quality are major factors that satisfy or dissatisfy tourists. Considering the importance of their loyalty and their potential in promoting the destination, it is important to design the products based on the needs and expectations of target markets. Destinations should be selective in targeting rather than trying to be everything for every one. On the other hand, while doing this, destinations should not focus on only one market but rather on various suitable markets. In this framework, based on tangible and intangible resources at the destination (e.g. alternative tourism, events and festivals), the products and services provided need to attract different tourist markets, thus the seasonality and possible negative impacts of crises can be minimized.

Policy advice 3. Managing and regulating existing distribution channels, developing new distribution channels to prevent dependency and minimize power asymmetry between destination stakeholders as well as international intermediaries, and establishing strategic alliances with external stakeholders that would create synergies for the destination and other collaborators (i.e. airlines, event organizers etc).

Rationale:

Many destinations in the OIC Region are too much dependent on international tour operators and intermediaries (e.g. booking.com). Due to this dependency and in the absence of a representative body to organize and regulate collective responses of stakeholders against these distribution channels, these international platforms can try to improve their position and profits at the expense of the destination itself. Thus, DMOs can regulate stakeholders and set price bases as well as ceilings for commission rates. Besides, DMOs would also empower local and regional intermediaries and promote direct reservations by introducing new distribution channels along with destination webpages. DMOs might also establish strategic alliances with external stakeholders such as airlines (e.g. joint promotion, lower landing fees), event and festival organizers (i.e. venue provision), production companies (e.g. movie sponsorships) to pull direct demand to the destination.

Policy Advice 4. Promoting collection, storage, analyses and dissemination of market data on visitor characteristics, seasonality, distribution channels performance, source markets, trends etc., while respecting confidentiality and privacy of individuals, to improve the marketing effectiveness of the destination stakeholders as well as DMOs.

Rationale:
Tourists provide remarkable information and data for the destination starting from the reservation process, to customs, location based services, credit card expenditures, satisfaction surveys and so on. Yet, the information collected by individual stakeholders is not usually effectively used, because majority of the OIC destinations do not provide the necessary infrastructure to upload and import these data from individual suppliers. On the other hand, this data is invaluable to create a central marketing intelligence about the characteristics of demand, the image of the destination, quality of the products, visitor loyalty and recommendation etc. Thus a central data collection and processing unit can also be suggested at the destination level.

Policy Advice 5. Utilizing digital platforms, mobile applications and allocating special attention on social media channels for improving tourist experience, information credibility and interaction among visitors in destination marketing

Rationale:
Internet has dramatically changed destination marketing, branding and image formation and rapidly emerging digital economy is challenging the relevance of the existing marketing practices. Digital platforms have become widely used instruments in destination marketing. DMOs use internet as a central part of their marketing strategy. In this respect, there is a need to adopt digital marketing approaches and improve the capacity of the relevant personnel in this new area. Social media platforms, which emerged as dominant digital communications channels as tourists increasingly engage with destinations on mobile devices, can also be utilized for this purpose.

Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Tourism Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office calls for projects each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the Member Countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For the above-mentioned policy areas, the Member Countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding and the COMCEC Coordination Office may finance the successful projects in this regard. These projects may include organizing seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparing analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents.
- OIC/COMCEC Private Sector Tourism Forum: In its future meetings, the OIC/COMCEC Private Sector Tourism Forum may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas and the sub-areas from the private sector perspective.
4. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE AGRICULTURE WORKING GROUP

4.1. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 11\textsuperscript{TH} MEETING OF THE AGRICULTURE WORKING GROUP

The COMCEC Agriculture Working Group (AWG) has successfully held its 11\textsuperscript{th} Meeting on February 22\textsuperscript{nd}, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “Improving Agricultural Market Performance: Developing Agricultural Market Information Systems”. During the Meeting, Agriculture Working Group, made deliberations on improving agricultural Market Information Systems. Accordingly, the participants have come up with the following policy recommendations.

\textit{Policy Advice I: Designing Market Information Systems (MIS) through assessing and reviewing targeted stakeholders with a sustained budget support and an effective monitoring and evaluation framework}

\textbf{Rationale:}

A well-functioning agricultural Market Information System (MIS) requires a careful design which aligns information provided to the identified needs of targeted stakeholders, especially farmers, traders, financial intermediaries and other private actors in the agricultural value chains through regular assessments and reviews. Because of the “public good” characteristics of the market information, sustainability of the MIS implementations can be achieved by governments’ budget support. Furthermore, a well-established monitoring and evaluation framework at the beginning is of utmost importance for the efficiency and sustainability of an MIS and ensuring that the target audience gains the anticipated benefits.

\textit{Policy Advice II: Building sufficient capacity for stock monitoring, trend analysis and forecasting as well as other relevant subjects beyond providing price information for a better functioning MIS}

\textbf{Rationale:}

Based on evidence found with regards to the expectations of market players, it is clear that the content of MIS should go beyond price information and include reporting trend analysis which can signal supply and demand conditions and allow market players to take positions regarding immediate and future price levels. To achieve this, there is a need to make necessary investments in building output forecasting capacity, which is becoming increasingly more feasible with the advances in ICT.
Policy Advice III: Linking MIS to other market-supporting institutions and/or other risk-management tools to increase the mutual benefits.

Rationale:
Linking the development of MIS to that of other market-supporting institutions such as line ministries, producer unions, farmer and traders’ cooperatives, marketing boards, state-owned economic enterprises and other institutions on the supply chain and/or other risk-management tools such as warehousing receipt systems, agricultural commodity exchanges as well as agricultural insurance programs can lead to mutual benefits. On the one hand, such institutional innovations will ensure that price discovery is more transparent and therefore worth accessing. On the other hand, effective and reliable MIS is an important prerequisite for developing these market institutions successfully.

Policy Advice IV: Forming the necessary mechanisms/platforms for an improved coordination among the key stakeholders and ensuring the effective review of the quality of information provided.

Rationale:
The needs of the relevant stakeholders along the agricultural value chains could be mediated by setting up necessary mechanisms/platforms such as specific working groups with representation from government, providers, key stakeholders and donors. These mechanisms facilitate coordination and rationalization of the information collection and dissemination process and thereby contribute to the efficiency. Furthermore, the quality of information provided and its relevance to target users could also be regularly reviewed through these mechanisms/platforms.

Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:
- COMCEC Agriculture Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.
- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office calls for projects each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the member countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For the above-mentioned policy areas, the member countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding and the COMCEC Coordination Office may finance the successful projects in this regard. These projects may include organization of seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparing of analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents, etc.
4.2. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 12TH MEETING OF THE AGRICULTURE WORKING GROUP

The COMCEC Agriculture Working Group (AWG) has successfully held its 12th Meeting on September 20th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “Analysis of Agri-food Trade Structures to Promote Agri-food Trade Networks among the OIC Member Countries”. During the Meeting, AWG made deliberations on promoting inclusive agri-food trade networks among the OIC Member Countries. Room Document, prepared in accordance with the main findings of the research report conducted specifically for the 12th Meeting of AWG and the answers of the Member Countries to the policy questions were the main input for the discussions. During the Meeting, the participants agreed on the policy recommendations included in the Room Document. The existing document includes these policy recommendations highlighted during the Meeting.

Policy Recommendation I: Developing and implementing preferential market access schemes and intra- as well as cross-regional trade agreements (e.g. TPS-OIC (Trade Preferential System among the Member States of the OIC)) with a view to contributing to collaborative and sustainable agricultural trade development.

Rationale:

Liberalization of agricultural trade within the multilateral system is a long-term goal as no negotiations have been concluded on agriculture since the end of the Uruguay Round in 1994. Agricultural trade flows are the result of a complex interplay between policy, geography, and productivity. Both at the global level and within the OIC, trade networks in agricultural products have a strong intra-regional dimension. Besides, regional trade agreements play an important role in promoting intra-regional dynamics with the effects varied across regions, time periods and product groups. There is also a clear movement in the agricultural sector towards trading with more distant partners, and most regions—both within and outside the OIC—are becoming more geographically diversified in their export patterns. Developing and implementing preferential market access schemes, as well as to conclude more intra- and cross-regional trade agreements/arrangements can help member countries benefit from the strong intra-regional dynamics of agricultural trade by collaborating with regional partners to liberalize agricultural trade on a preferential basis while reducing the potential for trade diversion costs that can arise from the use of preferences or regional agreements. In this regard, Trade Preferential System among the Member States of the OIC (TPS-OIC) gives an important opportunity to initiate such a basis for liberalizing agricultural trade among the OIC Member States.
Policy Recommendation II: Building supply-side capacity and improving demand side capacity through rationalizing non-tariff measures (NTMs) for a sustained agricultural trade structure among OIC member countries.

Rationale:

It is important for OIC Member countries to develop their ability to produce competitively if they are to take full advantage of the opportunities offered by market integration. Dealing with trade barriers within exporting countries—particularly poor infrastructure and trade facilitation—is the key. But NTMs, unlike tariffs, can also have implications for exporters, not just importers. In particular, developing national quality infrastructure as it applies to agricultural products is important. Cooperation through the OIC, as well as through related bodies, can help support this undertaking. Global agricultural markets still remain distorted as evidenced by higher levels of protection and trade costs. Non-tariff measures as factors affecting the ability of exporters to access foreign markets like product standards, certification and technical barriers to trade play a key role in keeping trade costs high. Given the importance of NTMs, a key issue for countries to develop a sustainable trade base is quality and certification. Implementing NTMs only when justified by a rigorous cost-benefit analysis would be a key starting point to rationalize NTMs while collaborative efforts among regional and development partners on standards and certification could be facilitated by COMCEC and other related OIC branches. Supporting national quality infrastructure, including in areas like halal certification as well as infrastructure and trade facilitation would also help importers as well as exporters.

Policy Recommendation III: Developing and increasing economic connectivity as well as physical and information connectivity to reduce trade costs in agricultural trade markets for a sustainable agricultural trade development.

Rationale:

Bilateral trade is a complex interplay of a number of different economic forces. A major factor is connectivity. This is all the more true in emerging agricultural product sectors like fresh fruits and vegetables, and fish, where cold chain storage is important. There is evidence that some OIC member countries have strong comparative advantages in these sectors. To take advantage of them, however, they need to develop high quality transport connections with consumer markets. Trade agreements often do not address such issues, but broader economic cooperation programs can. Developing connectivity is one way of reducing trade costs in agricultural markets, in addition to lowering tariffs and rationalizing NTMs. In the current information age, access to information and information networks are as important as physical networks. In some cases,

4 Physical connectivity refers to physical infrastructure such as ports, airports, road and rail links as well as logistics services all of which enable shipments to move between geographically dispersed parties.
connectivity can be achieved through a hub structure but in other cases, trade links are relatively dispersed due to the tendency for agricultural trade to be in dissimilar goods exploiting geographical differences, and/or influenced by trade policies including regional and cross-regional trade agreements. Establishing and developing comprehensive regional and intra-OIC agricultural trade information networks could be the fastest, lowest cost and possibly the highest valued project in this direction.

Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Agriculture Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.

- Future Joint Meeting of the COMCEC Agriculture and Trade Working Groups on the subject of OIC trade integration opportunities, efforts, policies and experiences.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office calls for projects each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the member countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For the above-mentioned policy areas, the member countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding and the COMCEC Coordination Office may finance the successful projects in this regard. These projects may include organization of seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparing of analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents, etc.
5. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE POVERTY ALLEVIATION WORKING GROUP

5.1. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 11TH MEETING OF THE POVERTY ALLEVIATION WORKING GROUP

The COMCEC Poverty Alleviation Working Group (PAWG) has successfully held its 11th Meeting on April 5th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey, with the theme of “Quality of Education in the OIC Member Countries”. During the Meeting, PAWG made deliberations on the efforts for improving education quality. Accordingly, the Working Group has come up with the following policy recommendations.

Policy Advice 1: Increasing both the quantity and quality of teachers, particularly who teach in schools serving to disadvantaged and poorest through improving wage rates, pedagogical interventions, performance incentives, training and curricula reforms.

Rationale:

Teachers are the most significant influencer of educational outcomes. However, they are in short supply in many OIC member countries. Efforts should be intensified to make teaching an employment of choice. Income levels are critical for attracting best candidates into the teaching profession. This partly explains why in high performing countries such as Singapore and South Korea, many top graduate students aspire to enter the teaching profession. However, teacher wage rates are very low in many OIC member countries. As indicated in SDG target-4, increasing the supply of qualified teachers must be a priority for the OIC countries.

On the other hand, evidence indicates that the level of competencies and knowledge among teachers remain low in the OIC member countries, particularly in schools serving the most excluded and poorest. Teachers lack the ability to transfer their own knowledge effectively to the students. Available options to improve teacher quality include contract-based appointment or the introduction of performance incentives. Pedagogical interventions that align teaching to student learning levels are also effective at improving student performance. Moreover, curricula reforms and teacher training should focus on the student’s understanding of the subjects and promote analysis instead of rewarding memorization.
Policy Advice 2: Increasing teaching and learning effectiveness through adoption and widespread use of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) based new models.

Rationale:
In all assessments, the OIC as a group showed a declining trend in education quality, measured in terms of student achievement in math, science and reading. The use of ICT based teaching and learning models remain a popular choice to aid teachers and students to overcome such shortcomings. Jordan and Malaysia are two examples to OIC member countries which have launched new projects to improve the quality of education by investing in ICT infrastructure in education sector.

While the use of ICT-based teaching and learning models are popular and have some promising features, their success is not always guaranteed. Content design of ICT-based learning platforms is one of the important dimensions of this type of initiatives. Moreover, new ICT-based models should be tried in small-scales and only be scaled up following an evaluation of their impact on learning outcomes. Experiences of the OIC members who have made investments in this area can offer some guide to other members. Examples include distribution of low-cost tablet-PCs, establishing central online school monitoring and reporting systems.

Policy Advice 3: Promoting better early-childhood learning opportunities through accessible and affordable pre-primary schooling

Rationale:
Income poverty and poor health are system-wide problems that also limit early-life learning opportunities. The level of malnutrition is very high in some of the OIC member states; physical illness is a major cause of student absenteeism from school Therefore, investments in child health and enhancing access to quality pre-primary schooling can go a long way for removing inequalities in learning opportunities at later stages of school education. The importance of early development is already recognized in the SDGs target 4.2 i.e. “ensuring that all girls and boys have access to quality early childhood development, care and pre-primary education so that they are ready for primary education by 2030”.

Country-specific analysis of learning outcomes of Jordan, Malaysia and Nigeria confirm the importance of pre-primary schooling for later success in primary and secondary grades. According to one estimate, providing children with 3 years of Early Childhood Education and Development (ECED) would increase the average secondary and tertiary educational attainment by 0.7 years. However, coverage of ECED differs throughout the OIC members. In many countries, participation rate in pre-primary education is low. In many instances, reliance on private providers limits access of the children from economically poor families or creates inequality in access to quality pre-primary education.

Policy Advice 4: Ensuring progressive universalism for closing the rich-poor gap in learning outcomes

Rationale:

Despite the reductions in poverty and increases in schooling rates in some OIC member countries, the gap between educational outcomes of students from rich and poor families persists. This socio-economic gap in learning is observed across the OIC region. The wealth gap is larger for the students studying at mainstream government schools in rural areas where the school quality is especially poor.

Findings in the context of all four case study countries of the research report indicate that income level of the family is strongly associated with student performance. Ensuring progressive universalism – allocating more resources to those who need it most – will require identifying children with learning deficits and effective mechanism to target them in the classroom and community. Only a few examples such as Bangladesh Rural Advancement Committee (BRAC) in South Asia and United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) schools in Jordan are observed to achieve success in providing quality education to students from economically disadvantaged families. More examples shall be identified across the OIC Region so that effective pro-poor education models can be made wide-spread. Madrassahs\(^5\) may play an important role in pro-poor education, however, some set of reforms and regulations might be needed to improve the prospects of religious seminaries across the OIC Region.

Policy Advice 5: Enhancing and reinforcing accountability through parental engagement and involving parents in the monitoring of their children’s education and intensifying the parent-teacher interaction to improve education delivery

Rationale:

The delivery of equitable quality education is a shared responsibility whereby different stakeholders work together and depend on each other. The lack of accountability is a system-wide challenge and key reason for the poor returns to public spending in education in the OIC member countries. Teacher truancy is a significant challenge in OIC countries. According to one survey including OIC countries, on average nearly 20

\(^5\) While in Arabic, the word Madrasa refers to any type of educational institution (religious as well as non-religious), this refers to a specific model of education in some countries where the focus is on Islamic or Qur’anic education.
percent of teaching time is lost every year due to factors resulting in teachers being away from school.

Evidence indicates a positive association between student performance in PISA and parental engagement. Student achievement is low where school authorities report only a minority of parents applying pressure on academic standards or the pressure being “largely absent”. Parents need to be kept up-to-date with what their children are studying and how they are progressing. This can enable parents to follow-up the progress by regularly consulting the teachers. Moreover, increasing the frequency of parent-teacher interaction can enable the school to provide parents with clear information on how to effectively contribute to their children’s learning. In addition, schools can provide useful information to parents through a variety of communication methods such as home visits, publishing newsletters, and parent’s handbooks.

Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Poverty Alleviation Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office issues calls for project proposals each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the member countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For realizing above-mentioned policy recommendations, the member countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding facility. These projects may include organization of seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparation of analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents, etc.
5.2. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 12TH MEETING OF THE POVERTY ALLEVIATION WORKING GROUP

A policy debate session was held during the 12th Meeting of the Poverty Alleviation Working Group (PAWG). The Working Group came up with some concrete policy recommendations for improving vocational education, especially for the children from poor families, in the OIC and approximating policies among the member countries in this important issue. The policy advices presented below have been identified in light of the main findings of the research report titled “Skills Development: Vocational Education in the Islamic Countries” and the responses of the Member Countries to the policy questionnaire which was sent by the COMCEC Coordination Office.

1. Policy Advice 1: Improving access of poor student/youth to vocational education through eliminating/reducing school fees, offering monthly scholarship schemes and providing adequate facilities (i.e. accommodation) for students coming from remote areas

1.1 Rationale:

Vocational Education and Training (VET/TVET) primarily focuses on providing skills to the youth in formal/informal sector. These young people are the major workforces in any industrial activities. Therefore, VET system can contribute in equipping youth for occupation, providing necessary skills and meeting the industrial requirements for economic growth. Successful VET system can also play an important role in poverty eradication and reducing the income gap between the rich and the poor.

There is a great number of young unemployed people in the OIC Region and the main constrain is to attract poor young people to skill trainings. The empirical evidence shows that many young people could not be able to enter into skills trainings due to school fees and other related costs. Vocational education and training should be offered free of charge or at lower prices to attract poor youth. Besides, monthly stipend or interest free loan may be provided to poor people for their education. Free vocational training, and monthly scholarship schemes can also enhance enrolment and provide greater opportunities for poor students.

Furthermore, a great number of people in the OIC Region are living in rural areas, and their income level is mostly very low. In order to attract poor youth in skills training for future employment, TVET institutions should be expanded in rural areas or these institutions should have necessary facilities (i.e. provision of hostels) in the OIC Region.
2. Policy Advice 2: Matching the skills thought in TVET institutions with the industrial requirements through job-oriented and demand-driven curriculum update and improving facilities of TVET institutions as well as establishing a training centre inside industrial area.

   a. Rationale:

   There is a strong relationship between TVET sectors and labour market demand. Vocational education generally provides job focused short and long-term training, which make unemployed people competent to meet industrial demand. Nonetheless, finding a job may not be easy for the graduates of TVET institutions if their education and training do not match the requirements of the industry. For this reason, bridging the gap between TVET and labour market demand is crucial to enhance the productivity of youth, who are well skilled, competent and professional capable in different areas.

   On the other hand, there is a lack of industrial linkage with TVET institutions in many OIC member countries. A great majority of the TVET institutions do not have modern machineries. On the contrary, most local industries have modern machineries installed to ensure continuous increase of their production capacity and to compete in global market. Therefore, TVET facilities need to be improved with modern equipment, labs, and machineries for offering updated skill training. In this point, industries should enhance cooperation with TVET institutions in the form of establishing a training centre inside the industrial area that will provide demand driven current skills for the TVET students for a certain period of time.

   Furthermore, outdate curriculum and training hinder the graduates to meet the current industrial demand. In order to close the gap between TVET and the industry requirements in the OIC member countries, curriculum update is required to make it more job-oriented and demand-driven.

3. Policy Advice 3: Increasing both the quantity and quality of teachers in TVET sector through providing professional development programs, industrial attachment, and recognition of their work based on performance

   a. Rationale:

   Teachers are of particular importance since they have direct influence on educational outcomes. Students learning outcome in TVET sectors largely depends on teachers’ teaching practices. However, research report conducted for this meeting shows that the level of competency and knowledge of the teachers in TVET sectors is not adequate and teachers do not have enough practical industrial experience in many OIC member countries. Moreover, numbers of specialised teachers (subject specific) are very low in TVET institutions.
In order to address these challenges, three specific strategies are recommended: firstly, teacher-training programs for updating instructors’ (teachers) skills should be continued in different forms (pedagogic, subjective, and exchange programs); Additionally, teachers should update their pedagogical techniques by means of using modern technologies in case of face-to-face, blended and online teaching approaches in TVET sectors; secondly, industrial attachment for technical teachers for a certain period of time (six months) can be practiced in TVET sectors; and lastly, achievement of teachers certification (license) for teaching involvement in TVET sectors is necessary before starting regular teaching. In order to attract bright and meritorious competent teachers in TVET sectors, motivational incentives such as attractive salaries can be provided and new teachers having industrial experience can be recruited in TVET sectors of the OIC member countries.

In addition, for enhancing the capacities of teachers and trainers, experts from different industries can be invited as Resource Persons in TVET institutions for sharing their expertise. Both teachers and students should visit industries regularly to observe industrial practices. Furthermore, in order to enhance sustainability of TVET sectors, and to cope up with the current trends, teachers should have provision for life-long learning that would assist them for updating their knowledge and skills.

4. Policy Advice 4: Increasing awareness about TVET and social recognition of its graduates in order to increase enrolment in TVET sectors and create new job opportunities for skilled graduates

a. Rationale:

Skills training is not attractive when finding job is not secure. Evidence shows that job focused skills attract young people towards vocational education. Research evidence shows that due to lack of knowledge and awareness on TVET and relatively low social status of TVET graduates, parents mainly send their children to general education instead of TVET institutions.

In order to attract poor young people towards skill training, a number of job opportunities should be available in OIC member countries. Few initiatives in this regard can be as follows: governments and private sector should create a number of job provisions; donor agencies should work with the government to generate alternative sources of employment for skilled graduates; and TVET graduates should be actively involved in creating jobs through entrepreneurship.
Industry should not recruit any technician and/or any skilled labour force without having relevant certificate from TVET institutions. Furthermore, TVET institutions and the industry need to close cooperation with Employment Agencies.

In this framework, awareness about TVET and recognition of skills training need to be enhanced in the OIC Region through seminars, conferences, and public service advertisements. The promotional activities of TVET sectors can also be extended via all media. Moreover, awareness raising activities can be organized among teachers, students and parents at school level so that they would be encouraged to enter into TVET sectors.

5. Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Poverty Alleviation Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office issues calls for project proposals each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the member countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For realizing above-mentioned policy recommendations, the member countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding facility. These projects may include organization of seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparation of analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents, etc.

- SESRIC’s OIC-VET Programme: Member countries can benefit from the capacity building/experience sharing opportunities provided within the framework of OIC-VET Programme.
6. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE FINANCIAL COOPERATION WORKING GROUP

6.1. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 10TH MEETING OF THE FINANCIAL COOPERATION WORKING GROUP

The COMCEC Financial Cooperation Working Group (FCWG) has successfully held its 10th Meeting on March 29th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “The Role of Sukuk in Islamic Capital Markets”. During the Meeting, FCWG made deliberations on the role of Sukuk in Islamic capital markets. Accordingly, the participants have come up with the following policy recommendations.

Rationale: Specific legal and regulatory framework along with robust market and infrastructure conditions play a key role in the development of Islamic Capital Markets (ICM) as well as sukuk as its core component. Based on the findings of the research report, each jurisdiction adopts its own strategy to promote Islamic finance and overcome inherent risks. In order for the smooth development of the ICM and to have a supportive ecosystem for sukuk issuance, the concerted efforts of key market stakeholders are quite important as well.

Rationale: The existence of a strong market infrastructure coupled with an enabling tax environment is one of the basic building blocks for sustaining long-term capital market growth. The progress of the Islamic capital markets to establish a compelling value proposition for market instruments will create a successful landscape for sukuk issuance as well. Hence, in order to promote sukuk issuance, there is a need for strengthening domestic Islamic capital markets through maintaining Tax neutrality or where needed improving the existing tax framework and the reforms to enhance market infrastructure (e.g. cost competitiveness, listing and approval process, tradability and transparency).

Rationale: One of the performance indicators of a healthy financial system is supporting non-bank financial intermediaries (NBFIs) mainly where such institutions are needed to complement the role of the banking sector, to create the liquidity base to promote demand for capital market products. Additionally, development of cornerstone investors with a specific appetite for Islamic assets (e.g. pilgrimage funds, waqf funds) would create extra demand for Shariah-compliant assets and potentially bring better cost-competitiveness (i.e. access to a wider investor base). Setting the stage to encourage the development of domestic wealth is equally important to develop a strong NBFIs investor base. The responsibility then resides with the respective government to provide the necessary support (e.g. compulsory pension schemes, incentives for retirement investment schemes, etc.) to strengthen wealth creation within its domestic financial system.

Policy Recommendation 4: Promoting a Sustainable Supply of Sukuk Issuance from the Private Sector in order to Foster Diversification of Industry Participants on the Supply Side and Expand the Benchmark Yield Curve.

Rationale: Based on the research report, the performance of the private sector is one of the most important indicators to track the pulse of a local sukuk market. Key to building a sustainable supply of private sector sukuk typically starts with a sovereign benchmark yield curve for corporate issuers to follow. Commercial motivation will always be the compelling reason for issuers to choose sukuk instead of conventional bond issuance. Identification of suitable state-owned entities or government-linked companies to become sukuk champions in promoting innovative structures can be the starting point to support the expansion of the benchmark yield curves.

Rationale: A seamless Shariah governance process incorporated into the financial system is important to make the Islamic capital market products attractive for all market players. There are different methods among countries in terms of the implementation of Shariah governance framework: while some countries adopt a centralized approach where a national Shariah committee is set-up within the regulatory bodies (e.g. central bank, securities commission, etc), some other countries implement a harmonized approach which is accepted by in-house Shariah advisers. Even though reference can be made to AAOIFI and IFSB Shariah standards, the final decision is still based on the domestic Shariah advisers that reside in each OIC member country. Ultimately, key stakeholders would need to decide which method fits industry requirements as well as provides faster turnaround time for sukuk issuance, improves the clarity of sukuk structures, promotes product innovation, builds market confidence and increases awareness among the industry practitioners.
Instruments to Realize the Policy Recommendations:

- COMCEC Financial Cooperation Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office issues calls for project proposals each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the member countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For realizing above-mentioned policy recommendations, the member countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding facility. These projects may include organization of seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparation of analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents, etc.

6.2. THE POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE 11TH MEETING OF THE FINANCIAL COOPERATION WORKING GROUP

The COMCEC Financial Working Group (FCWG) has successfully held its 11th Meeting on October 25th, 2018 in Ankara, Turkey with the theme of “Islamic Fund Management”. During the Meeting, FCWG made deliberations on improving Islamic fund management in the OIC Member Countries. Room Document, prepared in accordance with the main findings of the analytical study conducted for the 11th Meeting of FCWG and the answers of the Member Countries to the policy questions, was the main input for the discussions. Accordingly, the participants have come up with some policy recommendations.

Policy Advice 1: Development of Key Measures (developing masterplans, promotional activities, etc.) to Support a Viable Ecosystem for Islamic Funds

Rationale: Governments’ presence in promoting successful inclusion of Islamic funds within the financial landscape will boost and aid effective implementation of strategies. In addition, the development of a masterplan at the national level and creation of market demand are vital to support development of an Islamic fund industry. Greater market awareness will also provide the coverage required to support financial inclusion and financial planning. This can be achieved through collaboration between regulators and market players via promotional activities, conferences, and seminars for public education.

Policy Advice 2: Development of a Robust Regulatory, Supervisory and Shariah Frameworks to Ensure Compliance, Growth and Protection of all Stakeholders’ Interest particularly Investors’.

Rationale: The establishment of a robust regulatory framework and ongoing market supervision engender trust in the markets, allowing greater transparency in product development, approval processes and governance while ensuring the protection of all stakeholders’ interests. The governing rules and regulations that are issued by a regulatory body set the tone on the conduct of asset management companies and facilitate the orderly development of the Islamic fund management industry. Equally important is considering the development of a Shariah framework to govern the operations of the Islamic fund management industry. The issuance of guidelines on Shariah screening and purification process provides greater clarity to investors and other market participants regarding business conduct.
Policy Advice 3: Encouraging Establishment of Institutional Funds to Increase Demand for Islamic Funds.

Rationale: The development of a captive market for Shariah-compliant assets is key to building an investor base for Islamic funds. Wealth preservation and capital appreciation start with market awareness on the importance of investing and saving. Some Governments of developing countries have instituted government-linked bodies to manage retirement funds. Furthermore, the level of financial inclusion differs from one country to another. As such, the institutionalisation of public savings goes a long way towards facilitating the development of a local fund management industry. Based on the study, institutional investors that provide seed investment to Islamic funds have helped spur market performance and build the necessary track record for Islamic fund management. Ultimately, institutional funds play a pivotal role to support wealth creation and mobilization of savings to support economic growth, taking into account national plans and priorities.

Policy Advice 4: Encouraging the Development of a Facilitative Tax Framework to Secure Strong Commitments from Supply and Demand Sides to Promote Competitive Positioning for Islamic Funds.

Rationale: A facilitative tax framework is key in attracting commitments from market practitioners, institutional investors, including retail investors to sustain the long-term growth of Islamic fund management industry. The establishment of tax neutrality facilitates the costing of Islamic finance products, so as to be competitive with conventional offerings. Consideration of additional tax incentives to encourage investors to choose Shariah investments would provide another venue for the growth of the Islamic finance market. Some countries also provide tax rebates to individuals vis-à-vis investment in retirement schemes and children’s education, all of which help strengthen demand for fund management.

Instruments to Realize the Policy Advices:

- COMCEC Financial Cooperation Working Group: In its subsequent meetings, the Working Group may elaborate on the above-mentioned policy areas in a more detailed manner.

- COMCEC Project Funding: Under the COMCEC Project Funding, the COMCEC Coordination Office issues calls for project proposals each year. With the COMCEC Project Funding, the member countries participating in the Working Groups can submit multilateral cooperation projects to be financed through grants by the COMCEC Coordination Office. For realizing above-mentioned policy recommendations, the member countries can utilize the COMCEC Project Funding facility. These projects may include organization of seminars, training programs, study visits, exchange of experts, workshops and preparation of analytical studies, needs assessments and training materials/documents, etc.
